WOULD SHAKE SHIMMY.

BERLIN (By Mail)—Away with the shimmy and foxtrot! Bring back the good old German waltz and its masters. This is a new note in the night-life of Berlin. H. M. Heidrich, authority on things terpsichorean, declares. Every night that is when police restrictions do not prohibit—Germany's youth, and "not so youth," flings a jazzy heel in restaurants, bars, cafes, dance-halls and cabarets. But, says Heidrich, the pity of it is nobody dances the old German waltz. Nothing but rythmless fortrots and shimmys, dances originating in the warm climate of Spain and negro dives of New Orleans.

LEGISLATION FOR LOVE CHILD

GERMANY PROCEEDING WITH PLANS FOR UNFORTUNATE.

Constitution Promises Equal Treatment to Unmarried Mothers But Cannot Be Endorsed as Yet.

Editor's Note—In England, Germany and other European countries a strenuous fight is being waged today to promote the status of the "unmarried mother" and her offspring, the "love child." The movement in Germany has been a striking feature of the post-revolutionary development of that country The fight in Germany in behalf of the unmarried mother is described herewith in an article written for the United Press by Dr Helene Stoecker, editor of the prominent Berlin social organ, "The New Generation," and an international authority on women's affairs.

By Dr. Helene Stoecker.

BERLIN—(By Mail.)—For twenty years the German league for the protection of maternity has striven to improve the position of the unmarried mother with respect to her personal rights and her economic and social conditions. It has worked to protect unmarried mothers and their children from economic and moral dangers and to wipe out the prejudices prevailing against them.

The German constitution promises equal treatment to these unfortunates but the struggle to translate the constitutional clauses into law has not yet attained its goal

The aims of the league for the protection of maternity, which is affiliated with the international league for protection of maternity and sexual reform are as follows:

1. Compulsory insurance for mothers.
2. Abolition of legal discrimination against illegitimate children
3. The reform of maternity in its economic, moral and legal aspects.
4. Abolition of contempt against illegitimate motherhood.
5. Universal respect for the importance of motherhood.

In June, 1918, a great congress was held to improve the legal position of illegitimate children. All welfare organizations, as well as government officials, were represented.

Demands of Congress.

The congress demanded that the state and the large communities undertake the care of all illegitimate children. It was claimed that the illegitimate child should have the right to legally enforce acknowledgment of paternity from its father and the father's heirs.

The Norwegian law for children whose parents did not enter matrimony was passed in 1916. It gives the illegitimate child the right of its father's heritage and his name. The child can demand sustenance and education from its father, as well as from its mother. The child lives with its mother If the mother dies or neglects the child, the guardian may entrust it to the father. The parent under whose care the child is living must maintain it as if it were legitimate the other parent fulfills his duty by paying a part of the maintenance costs

Paternity of the Child.

The paternity of the child, according to the Norwegian law, must be discovered in every case, it being held that society, as well as the child, has a right to know the social position of both parents. If the courts do not venture to state the fact of paternity but are convinced of relationship between the parents during the questioned time the possible father will be held to pay

But the progress in Germany has been slower. When, from time to time it is reported that women officials in the posts or telegraphs or a teacher have been dismissed because of illegitimate maternity we file protests against this unconstitutional action. [illegible] quite as often [illegible] dismissal was [illegible] conduct. [illegible] ment, without realizing that they do not serve true morality, but only hypocrisy. Recently, however, in a conference of the household budget of the reichstag, an article was accepted which decidedly declares that illegitimate maternity of officials is not cause for dismissal. It will be seen, therefore, that our movement is making progress.

The department of justice has issued a decree that in official intercourse every unmarried mother is entitled to be addressed as "Frau."

ZR-1 IN WASHINGTON

Giant Dirigible Flies Low Over the Capitol and Dips Over Tomb of Unknown Soldier.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—While the ZR-1 was here today, the giant dirigible slipped thru low hanging clouds and flew out over the capitol, then straight up Pennsylvania avenue to the white house.

It circled there, turning with easy grace, and passed over the Lincoln memorial.

After passing over the Lincoln memorial, the ZR-1 slipped across the Potomac to Arlington, where it dipped low over the tomb of the unknown soldier, while flowers were dropped upon the grave.

Proceeding to Mount Vernon the ZR-1 and its escort of half a dozen seaplanes circled over the home of Washington and dipped three times in stately salute over his tomb Then cutting a wide circle over the river, the dirigible headed bacq to Washington.

It arrived over Bolling field just as a great swarm of army airplanes took the air at the opening of the army's air circus.

Despite the rainy weather, the city's roofs were black with people out to watch the big ship.

At 2 p. m., the ZR11 headed away from Bolling field and circling again over the downtown section of Washington, pointed its nose northwest for the return to Lakehurst.

NEW FREEDOM FOR THE WIFE

ATLANTA, Ga. Sept. 22.—When a married woman goes on an automobile ride with another man the husband has no legal grounds for complaint.

This new chapter in the freedom of women was written here today when Georgia court of appeal refused damages to M. L. Martin, who charged L Ball with alienating his wife's affections

"She rode with other men in automobiles and met them often in the parks," Martin charged

Such acts do not constitute violation of the martial relations of husband and wife, the court ruled.

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—Judge Joseph A. Ricter never heard of this new freedom of women.

He believes husbands still have some rights and one of them is the right to keep their wives from riding around in automobiles with other men.

And that's what he told Mrs. Bann Campbell when he denied her request for an injunction to keep her husband from interfering with her affairs.

Her specific complaint was that her husband "got peeved" when he saw her riding with a male friend and forced her to leave the automobile.

Judge Cliffe gave the defendants a [illegible] day stay of execution to permit time for an appeal.

CLAIMS KLAN RULE BROKEN

SITUATION IN RUHR WORSE

Government to Announce Resistance Is Ended.

TO DECIDE ON EXPRESSION

Some Officials Predict a Nation-Wide Outburst.

Conditions Said to Be Similar to Those of 1918 When Revolution Succeeded Signing of the Armistice.

BERLIN, Sept 22.—The German government late today decided that passive resistance in the Ruhr might be ended without delay.

The decision was reached following a conference in which government leaders reviewed the internal situation and the Franco-Belgian reaction to Chancellor Stresemann's proposals for conditional abandonment of resistance as made thru the Belgian minister.

The cabinet will meet, probably tomorrow, to decide in what form the cessation decision shall be announced to the allies.

It is assumed the public statement will be issued soon after the reichstag reconvenes Wednesday.

Some officials even predict a nation-wide outburst inside of a month unless the Ruhr question is settled, and assert the outbreak may occur even if the Ruhr problem is liquidated in the near future.

Today's situation in Germany resembled that of 1918, when Germany's armies admittedly had fought many months too long.

Conservative Germans feared the Ruhr war also has been over-fought by at least four months. They saw the demand of Premier Poincare of France for Germany's "complete and public capitulation" as the only exit for the government, unless it wishes to face revolution similar to that which succeeded the armistice in 1918.

On every side there are indications the internal situation is plunging toward a final crisis.

Discharged workmen in the Berlin factories are threatening to prevent by force their colleagues from working and thereby so injuring the factories that owners would be forced to suspend further allegedly artificial closing.

Already 30 per cent of the workers, largely trained metallurgists, have been discharged in Berlin, while clerical forces will be discharged completely, beginning October 1.

The same situation applies in varying degrees thruout the nation, while the prospect of increasing unemployment probably will cause outbreaks similar to those of last week in Baden and Upper Silesia.

Efforts to guarantee the workers a stable wage have been futile because of the continued tobogganing of the mark. Altho theoretically the workers are obtaining the equivalent or more than their pre-war pay, actually many of them are working for the equivalent of a dollar a week and being told to accept it or quit.

Communists were utilizing this situation to stir up new troubles, preaching violence against the police, overthrow of the government and erection of a soviet-like regime.

The whole of the communist power was thrown into the campaign to sabotage the government's efforts to

GAS BIDS ON MUNY SUPPLY

AROUND A DIME A GALLON ON PRESENT TANK SCALE.

Three Companies Submit Marginal Propositions—One Agrees to Go Step Further on a Profit Split Basis.

Three concerns agree to enter into marginal contracts to supply the city's municipal tank with gasoline for the fiscal year ending September 1, 1924. Bids were received informally Saturday by Commissioner Cowgill. Whatever recommendation to be made on acceptance or rejection will be a joint arrangement between Commissioners Cowgill and Wright.

The Star Oil company and the Skelly Oil company bid 3 3-4 cents a gallon under the prevailing tank wagon price on a basis of 150,000 gallons. This is 5 3-4 cents under the filling station price. In addition the Star company offers to split the difference in case the open tank car market plus the freight to Lincoln is in excess of the 3 3-4 cent margin. In other words, a saving to the city of half the company's profit in addition to the margin. The State Oil company bid 3 1-2 cents under the tank wagon price.

The Standard Oil company declines to enter the competition except to furnish current quotations from time to time. All bids are on navy test gas which, according to Mr. Wright, will meet fire department requirements.

Today's tank wagon price is quoted as 14 1-4 cents. This is two cents under the filling station price. On that basis, the maginal bid would be 10 1-2 cents to the city. The split-profit bid of the Star company would reduce the figure to 9 7-8 cents, accord to Mr. Cowgill. He finds, however, cause for hesitation in the fact that today he is able to buy gas of a company not listed among the three marginal bidders, at 9 3-4 cents. Under the charter he cannot buy on the open market where the amount exceeds $500.

The State Oil company bid one cent per gallon below tank wagon price on kerosene. The present price is 11 3-4 cents. Other companies bid tank wagon price. Commissioner Cowgill has decided to eliminate use of kerosene in his tractors and to substitute gas

NATION-WIDE PROBE OF OIL

ATTORNEY GENERAL SPILLMAN CALLS CONFERENCE.

Information for Use of Attorneys General of States and Attorney General of United States.

Attorney General Spillman issued an official call Saturday for a conference of attorneys general to be held at the Old Colony club, hotel LaSalle, Chicago, October 15 to 17 inclusive. The call was issued under authority of the national association of attorneys general at a recent meeting in Minneapolis. The call says the purpose of the conference is to devise ways and means of gathering and disseminating information relating to all phases of the oil industry of the several states and the attorney general of the United States.

Attorneys general of the mid-continent field and such other attorneys general as may be interested are included in the call, but others interested in consumption or production of oil may be given a hearing when the conference is not in executive session.

The call issued by Attorney General Spillman is the result of a resolution adopted at the Minneapolis meeting. That resolution states that a situation now exists with regard to petroleum and its products that is of wide interest to the public, particularly so in that a wide variance and spread of prices now appears in petroleum products which leads to the charge of price manipulation.

The break in prices of gasoline had just started when the Minneapolis meeting took action. The resolution adopted there calls for a thoro and nation-wide investigation by the attorneys general. Mr. Spillman was requested to call the conference at Kansas City or some other convenient place. He supplied attorneys general of the various states with questionnaires relating to the oil industry. Information obtained will be discussed at the Chicago meeting and if action is deemed necessary a course of procedure will be determined.

VILLAGE BONDS ARE REJECTED

Water Extension Bonds of Verdel Held to Exceed Limit.

Water extension bonds of the village of Verdel, Knox county, amounting to $6,500, have been rejected for registration by State Auditor Marsh. An examination by Bond Clerk Ralph C. Lawrence is relied upon by the auditor. It shows that the law allows issuance of bonds to the extent of 1 per cent of the total assessed valuation of the village. The village is, therefore, limited to an issue of $1,372. The entire issue is held void and the village officers will have to call another election if any bonds are issued.

Refunding bonds of the city of Blair, amounting to $85,000, running twenty years, optional, 5 1-5 per cent, have been registered. They are to take up 7 per cent bonds issued in 1921, optional September 21, 1923. They cover paving districts 3 and 6. There is still outstanding $52,090 of 7 per cent bonds covering paving district 4, optional December 1, 1923. These will be refunded at that time. The Omaha Trust company has a contract to buy both issues of refunding bonds.

WILL CONFER ON GERMANY

BALDWIN AND CURZON CONSIDER REPORTED COLLAPSE.

Latest Secret German Proposal to Abandon Passive Resistance Does Not Apply Directly to Britain.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Premier Baldwin was expected to confer with Foreign Minister Curzon today regarding what British statesmen considered as "the imminent collapse of Germany."

It was declared, however, that the latest secret German proposal for abandonment of passive resistance in the Ruhr on the condition that German citizens expelled and arrested be allowed to return to their homes, does not apply directly to Great Britain since it was submitted thru the Belgian minister in Berlin.

Great Britain, however, is following the situation closely and understands Chancellor Stresemann's proposals have been submitted officially to both Premiers Theunis and Poincare

Baldwin was silent on the subject of his conversations with Premier Poincare in Paris, but well informed persons believed that the new German proposals may have been considered by the two premiers and were not nearly so sanguine as the French about the truth of reports widely printed in Paris that Baldwin and Poincare had reached a basis for agreement

Great Britain experts anything to happen in Germany when the Stresemann government finally is forced to announce publicly its complete capitulation to the French

What Shall Be Done With the Speeder?

Police Judge Chappell: "There are cases in which nothing but a jail sentence would break the driver of speeding and reckless driving. But we have no law in the city at this time which authorizes the police judge to send speeders to jail. Probably the most effective manner of handling speeders would be under a law which would permit a man's auto to be taken away from him and put under lock and key. Under the present laws in this city the most effective weapon is the imposing of heavy fines.

County Attorney Matson: "Build up and maintain a public sentiment that will insist upon and support strict, certain and impartial enforcement of such laws as we have or may have; add to present laws one requiring all drivers to be licensed, with proper penalties for violation; require all applicants for licenses to pass satisfactory mental, physical and mechanical tests; bond all automobiles driven on the highways for payment of damages inflicted by them on person or property."

Don Critchfield: "As long as you have speed laws they are sure to be broken as all other laws are broken. If every automobile shipped into Nebraska was required to be equipped with a governor or controller similar to the equipment on stationary engines and this attachment set so that an automobile cannot possibly run more than forty miles an hour the speed problem would be solved. A few state inspectors similar to oil inspectors could control the application of this law. The law would include a severe penalty as the present law requiring a number."

Dr. Miles J. Breuer: "The fellow who is going to wreck a car is going to do it because his mind is inclined that way. Minds can be tested by the proper psychological tests. The thing to do is to give a person a mental test to learn if that person is fit to drive an automobile."

Lloyd J. McMaster: "I hink a lew requiring liability insurance would bring about mental tests."

ROBERTS TO SERVE TIME

MINDEN YOUTH CARRIED REVOLVER TO COUNTRY DANCE.

Now Supreme Court Says He Must Spend Some Time in the State Penitentiary Because of His Actions.

The supreme court said, in an opinion handed down Saturday morning that Joy Roberts of Kearney county was properly convicted of carrying concealed weapons and that the sentence of from one to two years is not excessive.

Roberts lives in Minden. He desired to attend a country dance in the town of Norman. He drove down in his automobile. Inside one of the flaps he had tucked a revolver. When he got out of the car he removed the gun and stowed it away in his clothes.

Later in the evening he got into trouble with some of the swains in attendance at the dance, and the revolver came into evidence. Later he was arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

His attorey attacked instructions of the court which he said put upon Roberts the burden of proving that he was justified in carrying the gun. There is a proviso in the law which makes the toting of weapons a felony to the effect that if it shall be proved from the testimony that the accused was at the time engaged in any lawful business, calling or employment and the circumstances in which such person was placed at the time were such as to justify a prudent person in carrying a weapon for the defense of his person, property or family, he shall be acquitted.

The supreme court says that it was not error for the trial court, when Roberts presented a defense of justification, to instruct the jury that as to that issue the burden of proof is on the defendant, when by other instructions the jury was correctly informed as to the burden of proof on the general issues.

BISHOP TIHEN SUES CITY

Former Head of Lincoln Diocese in Litigation With Authorities at Denver.

Bishop J. Henry Tihen, who was in charge of the Lincoln diocese for a number of years and went from here to Denver has been conspicuous in the courts there for the last two weeks because of an attempt to restrain collection of taxes on Mount Calvary cemetery, Tenth and Race streets. On May first Bishop Tihen brought a suit for $17,000 against the city and county and based his complaint on the premises That the land was deeded to the Catholic church for burial purposes and therefore is exempt from taxes or any assessments, that the city was violating the right of sepulture since "it threatened to advertise and sell the lands" that the burial ground yields no profit and should not be taxed and that the city has no legal right to encroach upon it in any way

On the first day of September the city thru its legal department filed a demurrer to the suit of Bishop Tihen to restrain the city from selling the land for taxes. The city maintains that the complaint of the bishop does not state a cause of action, and that it is an attempt to "evade" taxes. Bishop Tihen claims that the ground, which is located near Cheeseman park, was deeded to the church for burial purposes and that it is specifically exempted by the grant from taxation.

When the case comes to trial the validity of the twentieth amendment to the municipal charter will be questioned since it provides for the exemption from taxes only of parks, parkways and streets.

BALKAN WAR RUMORS OUT

FAIL TO SETTLE ITALIAN-SERB FIUME DISPUTE.

Rome Determined to Remain, String of Decrees From Italian Governor's Office Shows, Correspondent States.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Rumors of a possible Balkan war continued here today as the long drawn out negotiations between Italy and Jugo-Slavia for settlement of the question of Fiume failed to reach an agreement.

The new Italian dictator of Fiume, General Giardino, intends to depart for Rome Sunday to make a personal report to Premier Mussolini on the situation, the Fiume correspondent of the Daily Express said

The string of decrees pouring from the governor's palace shows unmistakably that Rome is determined to remain in Fiume, trade or no trade, thus insuring security of the position of Trieste as the principal port of the Adriatic, the correspondent said

FAVOR WOMEN AS MEMBERS

METHODISTS ADOPT MEMORIAL TO GENERAL BODY.

Two to One of Nebraska Preachers Would Admit Woman Preachers to Full Privileges of State Meeting.

A memorial presented by a committee with Dr. Titus Lowe, chairman, and Rev. A. A. Brooks of Lincoln secretary, on receiving women into ministerial membership in the state conference on the same qualification as men, aroused the liveliest discussion of the Saturday morning session of the Nebraska conference. The vote showed 172 ministers in favor of the measure and 45 opposed. Dr. Lowe said the committee was divided in the matter and would make no recommendation. Later both Dr. Lowe and Dr. Brooks of the committee spoke decidedly in favor of women receiving representation. Dr. Lowe said that when God calls women into the ministry, they should not be hindered by the mechanism of the church.

Two district superintendents, Rev. E. D. Hull of the Norfolk district, and Rev. J R. Gettys of the Beatrice district, both spoke against admitting women. Superintendent J. H. Clemens of the Lincoln district told of putting a woman preacher, Miss Mary Turnbull, in Havelock, where she was successful in a work where men had failed.

YET ANOTHER DANGER SIGN

MR. COWGILL OUT OF STEP WITH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Cannot Agree With Wholesalers as to Proper Boundary Line to Define Cross-Roads of Local Interests.

Street Commissioner Cowgill declines to confer with a chamber of commerce committee of wholesalers in regard to their suggestion as to where to place the cross-roads between wholesale and retail industry.

Mr. Cowgill stands pat. Not alone upon Sumner street but upon what heretofare has been a gift of the imagination—a right to say what constitutes wholesale Lincoln and what constitutes retail Lincoln. He holds to the lines he drew some weeks ago despite the fact that such lines take in much more territory than those suggested by the chamber of commerce committee.

He has prepared a tentative ordinance draft which includes not the lines as proposed by the committee but as poposed by himself. He will serve this tentative dish to the committee.

The street department head does not quite understand why wholesale interests should desire to cut down his proposed belt. The committee's so-called tentative draft cuts a block here and there from Mr. Cowgill's tentative draft. For instance, the committee would leave the blocks bounded by M and O and Eighth and Ninth and by O and Q and Eighth and Ninth out of the wholesale belt tho they would include both sides of O street, Eighth to Ninth. Mr. Cowgill puts it all in. Here are the two proposed outer boundaries of the wholesale district:

The committee's plan: Starting at corner of Ninth and J, north to M west to Eighth, north to O, east to west side of Ninth, back on north side of O to Eighth, north on Eighth to Q, east to Ninth, north to R, east to Tenth and thence north.

Mr. Cowgill's plan: East on J from First to Ninth, north to K, east to the alley between Ninth and Tenth, north to alley between O and N, west to the center of Ninth, north to Ninth and O, west to the alley between Eighth and Ninth, north to P, east to Ninth, north on Ninth to Q, east to Tenth and thence north.

Mr. Cowgill's decision to separate the wholesale from the retail by lines other than imaginery probably was hastened by a vinegar barrel or several barrels. If a vinegar barrel may stand on the sidewalk on west O street and not on South Eleventh, he wants supporting legislation.

WALTON INSTITUTES ADDITIONAL COURTS

Scores of Klansmen Rounded Up and Questioned By Military Inquisitors.

GRAND DRAGON IS ARRESTED

Executive Says Klan in State Is Whipped.

"INVISIBLE RULE IS DONE FOR"

Oklahoma Governor Still Determined Legislature Shall Not Meet, Declaring It Assemblage of Klansmen.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 22.—Charging the state legislature was dominated by the ku klux klan, Governor J. C. Walton today repeated his determination to use every ounce of military strength in the state to break the power of "invisible government" and prevent the law makers from assembling to impeach him.

"The grand dragon of the klan has marshalled his forces, who are members of the legislature and they are threatening to convene themselves and impeach me," the governor charged in his latest public statement today.

Martial law will be clamped on with renewed severity unless the "klansmen" back down in their efforts to assemble, the governor threatened.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 22.—Two additional military courts to examine witnesses in the investigation of alleged lawlessness and ku klux klan rule in Oklahoma were established today by Governor Jack Walton.

Scores of klansmen rounded up by special agents of the governor were examined by the military inquisitors as plans were speeded to complete the proceedings before the date set by state legislators for a special session to impeach Walton.

Testimony already uncovered by the governor's military aides has placed entire responsibility for whippings at the door of the ku klux klan. On the strength of this evidence, the governor caused the arrest of N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Oklahoma realm of the klan and made the sensational declaration "the klan is whipped. Rule of the invisible empire in Oklahoma is done for."

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 22 —"The ku klux klan is beaten," Gov. J. C. Walton declared today following the arrest of N. C. Jewett, grand dragon for the organization in Oklahoma, and other sensational developments in the executive's warfare on the invisible empire.

Warrant for arrest of Jewett was issued by Prosecutor J. K. Wright who admitted he had personally paid an initiation fee into the klan. Jewett was released on $1,000 bod after pleading not guilty.

Evidence on which Jewett's arrest was based was given the military court of inquiry by Dr. A. A. Maupin, dentist, a former klan member. He said Jewett admitted to him that he had "laid on the lash" personally in the flogging of E. R. Merriman.

The governor is still determined that the meeting of the Oklahoma legislature called for next Wednesday to tart impeachment proceedings against him will never assemble.

"If the legislature meets I will consider it an assemblage of klansmen and the military authority will be ordered to deal with it just as any other gathering of the invisible empire," the governor said.

"Sixty-eight of the assembly members are ku klux klansmen and a little more than 50 per cent of the senate belong to the organization. The men who intend to assemble plan to meet not as legislators but as klansmen."

Walton said he had information to prove "that beyond a doubt" that W. D. McBee, leader in the move for the special session of the legislature is an active member of the Duncan, Ok., klan.

The governor accused the "klan-kept press" of Oklahoma of refusing to print the facts developed by the military court of inquiry. However, he said a great many newspapers outside the state were giving "splendid service."

To Drop Evidence.

In order to meet the facts of martial law developments before the people of the state, Jimmy Mathers of Ardmore, plans to have thousands of circulars printed and dropped over the state telling of the revelations against the klan obtained by the military court

The governor said he would prove that the klan shipped its records to Atlanta Ga., when the military investigation started

"However, we will be able to show from the records," he continued, "that the klan is a lawless and criminal organization that the sheriff's offices and the offices of chiefs of police and the jury commissioners in both Tulsa and Oklahoma City are under domination of the klan

Further testimony given before the military court by Dr Maupin as made public by the governor Dr Maupin said

"At a meeting of klansmen several months ago, Jewett warned local members that there had been too much talk about activities of the klan Persons who have been doing things around Oklahoma City are liable for both McAlester and Leavenworth prisons."

At Jewett's request, Maupin said, the Oklahoma City klan gave $500 toward the defense of members of the klan in Ardmore who were accused of murder when an alleged bootlegger of Ardmore was slain by a masked

RAILROAD TO PAY BENEFITS

MISSOURI PACIFIC STUCK FOR OVER FORTY THOUSAND.

Must Pay Its Share of Constructing Draininge Ditch That Has Tamed the Fiery Waters of Muddy Creek.

In a decision handed down Saturday the supreme court held the Missouri Pacific railroad liable for $41,386 the amount assessed against it by Drainage District No. 5, Richardson county.

Muddy Creek is one of the drainage streams of the county, and while ordinarily not much of a one, it drains a considerable area so that when the rains are unusual it floods large tracts of land. The farmers organized a reclamation project, and at a considerable cost have constructed a drainage ditch that has about tamed Muddy creek.

The railroad runs for three miles alongside Muddy creek, and it was included as one of the parties benefitted by the improvement. It veheme.tly protested that it was not benefitted at all. It admitted that there had been years when its roadbed had been flooded and its tracks made unsafe, but it said that it had gone to a large expense in preventing repetitions by elevating its tracks beyond the danger line and building banks of gumbo impervious to water.

The district brought engineers to show that the railroad was benefitted because it will never have to do any more track elevating and that by removing the flood menace there will be no beating of waters against its roadbed and there will be less deterioration.

The supreme court says that the district was organized under statutory authority and that it had the power to assess the railroad for benefits. Evidence outlined in the opinion is held to be sufficient to sustain an assessment of benefits accruing to railroad property by damage.

NOT LIABLE FOR INJURY

OMAHA COUNTRY CLUB WINS SUIT BROUGHT BY CADDY.

Supreme Court Says Its Negligence Not Proximate Cause of Hurts to Boy From Flagpole on Driveway.

The supreme court Saturday relieved the Omaha Country Club from all liability for the injuries sustained by Adolph H. Steenoock, a caddy in the employ of the organization. The lad was waiting a call to duty one day when hurt. A flagpole on the grounds had fallen across the driveway, and the club officials had neglected to remove it. Ludovic Crofoot, in his limousine, came down the driveway, and the machine hit the butt end of the pole, causing the slender end to strike the boy, who was sitting close to it.

The supreme court says that the negligence of the club officials would never have hurt anybody, and that it required the intervention of a third party to produce an injury. It says that the proximate cause of an injury is that which in the natural and continuous sequence, unaccompanied by any efficient intervening case, produces the injury and without which the result would not have occurred. It is not sufficient that the negligence charged furnishes only a condition by which the injury is made possible, for if such condition causes an injury by the subsequent independent act of a third person, the two acts are not concurrent and the existence of the condition is not the proximate cause of the injury.

The boy recovered a $3,125 judgment in the lower court against the club. The court sets aside this judgment, and dismisses the case. It says it is plain that the negligence of Crofoot's chauffeur was the first cause, and as he has settled by paying the boy $1250, there is nothing to litigate.

CROWN PRINCE PROTESTS

Former Heir to German Throne Demands Return of Rights and Permission to Live in Germany.

DOORN.—(By Mail.)—The former German crown prince has grown tired of going to the Prussian government every time he wants to change an employe on German estate, Oels.

Oels has been under sequester of the Prussian state government since the revolution. The income therefrom furnishes the prince most of the ready cash upon which he and his family subsist. A portion of it goes direct to the prince and a portion to his wife, who usually lives with her children in Potsdam.

In an interview with the prince he declared:

"I have taken the bull by the horns. It is an unbearable situation and every time I want to make a change in the administration of my estate, or have some slight renovations made, I am forced to apply to the Prussian finance ministry.

"Therefore I am demanding my rights in the courts, asking that the sequester be removed and complete control again be vested in me. Besides and above that, my aim naturally is to return to Germany and resume administration of my property myself, and live for and with my family."

The wife of the former German heir does not share the exile of her husband at Wieringen, off the Dutch coast, because the children could not be properly educated in that out-of-the-way spot and a private tutor would cost too much to maintain there. The general cost of living in Holland for the whole family would far surpass the prince's budget. The princess occasionally visits her husband at Wieringen, but for the most part they meet under the roof of Castle Doorn.

ULTIMATUM TO STRIKERS

New York Pressmen Given Chance to Return to Work With Slight Increase.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—An ultimatum to striking pressmen who all but stopped publication of the metropolitan newspapers for nearly a week has been announced by publishers and the international union.

The international union and publishers have signed an agreement which will guarantee the men better working conditions.

This agreement will be put before thel ocal union Sunday, according to arrangements made today and the men will be granted the opportunity to return to work under the agreement or have their local union outlawed.

In the latter case the international union will obtain other pressmen to carry out the working contract. This contract provides:

1—Wages will be increased $3 a week.

2—Working hours will be reduced from forty-eight hours a week shifts for both day and night to forty-five hours for day and forty-one hours for night shifts.

3—Other points of dispute are to be settled by arbitration.

EVADED DRAFT FOR MOTHER

Wisconsin Man Lived in Seclusion at Home for Five Years, Neighbors Thinking Him Gone.

MARSHFIELD, Wis., Sept. 22.—Love for his mother—a love which induced him to evade the draft—today brought to light the story of Frank Schweighofer, twenty-eight, who has lived in seclusion with his mother and sister for five years, while neighbors thought him gone.

Schweighofer told officers who held him in custody it was the same love which prompted him to evade the draft which made him surrender rather than desert his mother in death.

"I wasn't afraid of war, but my mother was alone and she begged me not to go," Schweighofer explained, according to Michael Griffin, chief of police. "I don't think it was right to desert her when she died and that's why you found me."

Schweighofer's presence in his mother's home was first discovered when he admitted neighbors into the house after her death. He said he had been living there for five years, wearing his sister's clothes when he worked in the garden.

Griffin released the prisoner on orders he said he received from federal authorities.

BAUM WINS PAIR OF SUITS

Douglas Motors Corporation Fails to Convince Supreme Court of His Liability.

Daniel Baum, jr., formerly of Lincoln, but who has made a fortune in the hardware business in Omaha in recent years, won two suits in supreme court Saturday, in which the Douglas Motors company was plaintiff. Some years ago, F. W. Bacon invented an automobile engine and with W. J. Griffith started manufacture under the name of the Drummond Motors company. Needing financial asistance they applied to Mr. Baum and associates, who organized a subsidary sales company and advanced altogether, $44,000, and took cars and stock as security.

Later the Douglas Motors company with a capital of a million was organized, and took over the Drummond company, paying for it by issuing $80,000 of stock and paying its $55,000 of debts. Mr. Baum was one of its organizers. Later half a million of the stock was sold to the public.

One suit charged that the City Safety Deposit company had got hold of 500 shares of stock and converted the proceeds. Baum being charged with having participated in the profits. The court says that the evidence clearly establishes that the deposit company gave a valuable consideration for the stock, and hence no liability exists against it or Baum.

The other suit arose out of a contract that Mr. Baum made with the company. He had received 675 shares when the stock of the new corporation was distributed among the organizers and had been made president at $250 a month. Dissentions arose and he contracted to turn back his stock and be relieved of all liability, also resigning as president. He had sold seventy-six shares and the corporation tried to hold him liable for their value, $7,500. The supreme court says it is clear that all matters in dispute were settled by the compromise agreement, which was supported by a sufficient consideration and fully performed. It therefore dismisses the suit.

HUNT MISSING VESSEL

Coast Guard Tugs and Fishing Smacks Seek Vessel Overdue at Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 22.—Coast guards tugs and fishing smacks rode the waves of Lake Michigan today in search of the fruit carrier Forelle, overdue here since Thursday at dawn.

Three other fruit vessels which left Benton Harbor, Mich., Thursday departed from their course to search for the Forelle, but reported no trace of the ship.

The Forelle, a steel vessel, sixty-five feet long, was manned by a crew of five. While she may have been wrecked in Thursday's storm, shipping officials here said they believed the craft had developed engine trouble and would limp into port within a few days.

SAYS WOMAN KILLED WIFE

CABARET GIRL'S HUSBAND EXPOUNDS THEORY.

Thinks Spouse Had Stumbled on Love Secrets of Another Woman Dope User and Paid Penalty.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—A woman drug fiend, crazed by dope, hacked and slashed with scissors the nude body of Ethel Cass, cabaret girl, until she was dead.

This is the theory advanced to police today by the woman's former husband, J. W. Cass, who declared that she had been associated with a secret band of women narcotic users shortly before her bloodstained body was found locked in a hotel bed room with her two year old child.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of homicide after viewing the body.

Lieut. C. H. Craig testified that he had found traces of bloody hands on the woman's flesh in such a position that she could not have made them herself. He also swore that he discovered a towel hanging in the bath room and that it bore the same bloody finger marks that were on the body.

The jury discredits the story of suicide or accidental death and returned an opinion that death was caused by "hemorrhages from blows inflicted by a person or persons unknown."

The fact that whoever wielded the weapons with which the crime was apparently committed did not break the cafe girl's skull, strengthened the theory that the assailant was another woman or women.

Cass, the husband, believes that the pretty entertainer had stumbled on the secrets of a love affair of another woman dope user. He thinks that his former wife was slain to prevent her revealing these love secrets.

ATLAS WINS APPEAL CASE

Supreme Court Reverses Judgment in Favor of Vaughans in Oil Station Deal.

The Atlas Refining corporation sued J. H. and J. C. Vaughen for $13,831, on a deal that involved the rescission o fa contract by which it purchased oil stations the latter owned at Alliance and Antioch. The Vaughans put in a counterclaim for $28,000, and the Lancaster county district court gave them judgment for an amount that, after a part being remitted, amounted to $5,223.

The supreme court Saturday said that this counter-claim could not be considered in the litigation in view of the contract entered into, and enters up judgment for the Atlas company for the $13,831 prayed for. The Atlas was compelled to ask for a rescission of the contract ot purchase because it was not allowed to sell stock.

COP WASN'T POLITE; FREED

Chicago Speeder Released by Judge Because Policeman Used "Rough" Language.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—L. V. Colvin was freed from a speeding charge because Michael O'Shea, policeman, used "rough" language in arresting him.

"Some policemen think a citizen has no rights," said Judge Charles F. McKinley. "A citizen has a right to respectful treatment even tho he may be a law violator. 'Hard boiled' talk has no place in making an arrest."

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

A big jollification and celebration was held on the campus of Union college over the completion of the new line to College View via the Lincoln Normal college.

Prof. W. H. Skinner, superintendent of the Nebraska City schools, died in Omaha.

Among the interesting features of the U. S. government exhibit none was attracting greater attention than the war balloons.

Weber & Fields had just produced their annual burlesque, "Hurly Burly." Principals in the music hall feature were Joseph Weber, Lou Fields, Frankie Bailey, David Warfield, Charles J. Ross, John T. Kelley, Fay Templeton, Mabel Fenton, Rose and Nelly Beaumont, Josephine Allen and Aimee and Leah Angelis.

Mr. Rosewater authoritatively denied that he was a candidate for United tSates senator. He said that three of the legislative nominees from Douglas county were thugs and pluguglies.

Word came from Kansas City that Buffalo Bill was gravely ill with typhoid fever.

DAVID CHANGES HIS MIND.

DAVID frowned and shuffled his feet when his mother called him into the house to help her clean the walls and dust the pictures, one morning while she was house-cleaning. He slammed the door so hard that window-panes rattled.

"Gracious me!" laughed his mama. "You should live where folks don't have any walls" And she hurried out into the other room for more dust-rags.

"I wish I did," David sighed. "I hate houses with walls."

"Be careful, be careful," laughed a merry voice, and Gocomeback, the little travel elfin, hopped down beside David from the window-sill. "You had better find out whether you'd like a house without walls first." And before David had time to ask any questions, he was whisked through the air at such a rate that he nearly lost his breath.

When they at last stepped down on the ground, David was so warm he felt nearly cooked. He hardly blamed the men, women and children that ran through the coconut groves for not wearing many clothes.

All the shelters that David could see were just sheds without any wall at all, supported on posts and thatched together with leaves.

Gocomeback smiled as he saw David glance up at the rafters of one of these sheds. There hung all the personal goods of the owner—pots, pans, paddles, clubs, guns, bows and arrows. Between the upright posts were suspended hammocks, hung in tiers, one above the other, just like the berths on board the passenger-train David rode on when he went to visit his grandma.

"My goodness!" David fairly gasped. "What country do you call this, anyway? Do all the natives live in this way? I should think this house would tumble down if anyone sneezed hard."

"One question at a time," laughed Gocomeback. "This is the way all the Indians of Guiana build their houses. They have lived in such sheds all their lives and I never have heard of one of their houses tumbling down. Yet, when you realize there are often about forty hammocks hanging from one roof, you may well feel there is cause for alarm.

"You see, the mosquitoes and insects that fly at night are so many, that the Indians keep fires burning all night. They take turns getting up to put on fresh brush. Sometimes, the old places rock, but they never fall. I guess they tie the beams and posts pretty firmly so that they are stronger than they look.

"Well, what do you say?"

David shook his head and smiled rather foolishly. Like a flash of lightning, he found himself in his own house.

"In spite of all the work there is attached to them," he laughed, "I prefer our American homes." And whistling merrily, he hurried into the house to help his mother.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Way Dicky Came Home to Madge.

MY hope of sleep, which should banish the remembrance of the book I had read and had tortured myself into believing its hero was my husband, did not materialize.

I tried every expedient I knew, but I heard each quarter-hour strike from the old chimes in a church tower nearby until a tangible anxiety was added to the imaginary one which had been terrifying me. Surely, I told myself, when two o'clock had sounded, the most drawn out banquet should be over, and I knew that it was less than a half-hour's journey from the big hotel where the affair had been held, to our humble apartment.

Dicky ought to be home.

Suppose something had happened to him!

Useless to tell myself that if my husband were the man about whom I had been reading, he was distinctly not worth worrying about, and my life would be more peaceful if he never came home. That primal emotion of woman, fear of danger to her mate, swept over me, held me tense, breathless, agonized for the hour and a half which elapsed until I heard the hall door open and close and Dicky's key in the lock.

Then with something akin to the emotion which prompts a mother to slap a child over whose disappearance she has been agonizing, I found myself unwilling to greet him kindly, or even to speak to him if I could help it, and cuddling down into the bedclothing so that there was left only an aperture for breathing, I pretended to be asleep.

A Terrifying Thought.

I kept up a regular and deep breathing for several seconds after the door had opened and closed again. And then, disquietingly, I realized that Dicky had not moved after closing the door. He was standing motionless, inside the door, and I heard no sound but that of his hurried, unsteady breathing.

An utterly absurd but terrifying thought seized me. Suppose it were not Dicky standing there, but some marauder who had in some way secured a key to the rooms?

My pulse seemed to stop and my flesh felt icy as I faced this possibility, but I knew there was but one thing to do.

With a swift movement, as noiseless as I could make it, I slipped from my bed on the opposite side from the door, and snapped on the switch of the night lamp at the head of the bed. But at what the light revealed, I forgot my absurd fear, my anger against my husband, my worry over the book I had read—everything but the fact that disheveled, pallid, shaking, Dicky was leaning against the wall, either sorely hurt or desperately ill, I did not at first know. Then, even as I sprang toward him, I saw the edge of a bandage beneath his hat, and knew that he had experienced some accident.

"I'll Attend to This Myself."

I wasted no time in exclamations or questions. My long association with Lillian has schooled me in a habit which my mother's teaching began long ago. I drew up a chair to Dicky's side, and slipped my hand under his arm.

"Sit down, dear," I said softly, the caressing word involuntarily uttering itself.

He slumped heavily against me, while the pallor of his face deepened.

"Bed," he whispered to my relief, for knowing his reluctance to be "doctored" or "babied," I had not ventured to suggest his lying down. But he was almost a dead weight upon me when I finally got him to the bed and with the whispered words, "No doctor," he fainted.

Fortunately I have had much experience with swoons, and in sickness and accidents of widely differing kinds, so that I was not as much alarmed as I otherwise would have been, but even with my conviction that he was only in an ordinary swoon, there seemed a tight band clutching my heart until the restoratives I applied were rewarded by the opening of Dicky's eyes.

"Did I go under?" he asked slowly. "What a fool!"

"Don't talk yet!" I urged. "Drink this."

I slipped my arm under his shoulders, and put a glass to his lips. He drained it obediently, and I eased him back to his pillow, taking my first opportunity to give more than a cursory glance to the queer-looking and blood-stained bandage around his head.

But as I bent down to inspect the bandage, Dicky put up both hands over it, as if he were protecting it from me.

"Didn't you ever see a cut on the head before?" he demanded crossly. "I'm all right, now, or will be in a minute or two, and I'll attend to this myself."

WHAT a puzzling, daring, sometimes embarrassing hour it is in which he buys a ring—THE ring—so he shall be prepared if she smiles on him that instant he asks her to be his wife! Somehow the sparkling glory of the ring, itself, is a forecast of happiness. YOUR HEALTH

What to Do to Be Sure Your Baby's Food Is Clean

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

MANY young mothers have spent days and nights pacing the floor because the baby had the colic.

Such a seemingly simple thing as a soiled nipple, or an empty feeding bottle left in the crib, will cause these nights of suffering for the baby and anxiety on the part of the mother.

Perhaps some suggestions about the care of the baby's food and the utensils used in preparing it will be helpful. It does not matter about the age of the child or the kind of food, cleanliness is of the greatest importance.

Suppose you are going to prepare the formula for the day's feedings. Begin by having all the utensils and bottles together on a clean table. The bottles containing the milk should be washed as soon as they are received in the morning and before they are put in the ice-box. It is a wise plan to rinse all dishes carefully before mixing the formula.

The feeding bottles should be thoroughly washed, rinsed and boiled for twenty minutes before using. When they are filled with the formula they should be corked with clean absorbent cotton. Then place the filled bottles in the ice-box where they will be safe from contamination until feeding-time.

Never make use of a nipple that has been dropped on the floor. Put it in a jar filled with clean water until you have a chance to boil all the used nipples.

After the feeding has been taken, the bottle should be removed from the crib. Otherwise baby may suck into his stomach from the empty bottle. Also there will be taken into the mouth the germs that may have collected on the nipple.

In preparing food for older children just as much care should be observed. Never leave the food uncovered or where it will take the taste of other foods. Milk and butter are easily contaminated by other foods. If possible, use a separate compartment of the ice-box where no other foods are kept Always give children fresh food, freshly prepared. Some little article of diet not strictly fresh will upset the digestion for days and perhaps for weeks.

Cleanliness is the first law in good health. You must not forget this. The health and the life of your baby depend on the strict observance of this rule.

Answers to Health Questions.

MRS. G. Q.—When I am on my feet a great deal, I suffer from pains in my right limb, near the hip bone. Will you kindly tell me what causes this trouble?

M. C. Q.—I am a young man, 24 years old, and am troubled with blepharitis. Will you please tell me what to do for this condition?

* * *

A. L. Q.—I am a young man and have heart trouble. Do you think I would be taking a chance by going in swimming?

A.—If you have heart trouble you should not go in swimming or indulge in any strenuous exercise. Have your heart examined to determine definitely the condition present and follow the physician's advice in regard to treatment.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

How You Can Help Your Daughter Give Her First Luncheon

By WANDA BARTON

MANY mothers with daughters between ten and sixteen feel that they have a distinct problem as well as a joy. The trouble seems to be principally in keeping them amused and their minds on the right rather than the wrong things of the age.

Sociability should be encouraged in young people and the best way to do it is to make home attractive. If they can dance, have music, games and refreshments for them and for their guests at home, with enough freedom to enable them to feel that they are not being watched and criticized. They will stay home gladly under these circumstances. Otherwise they will seek their pleasures elsewhere and we shall have but ourselves to blame.

Young daughters love tea-parties, luncheons and in fact any sort of social gatherings, and it is a nice way for them to entertain. Mother should help receive the guests and start things moving, then she should slip away and leave her daughter to play hostess after her own fashion. Consult your daughter about the decorations—in fact let her plan and carry them out herself. Let her also have a voice in the menu. Perhaps if she is so inclined, she will want to make a cake or some other delicacy that she can show as her very own. Don't discourage her. Let her try it. If she is successful, she may do quite a little along that line which will be helpful to her later on.

Usually all functions during the school year must come between Friday afternoon and Sunday night, so they should be arranged accordingly. A Saturday luncheon can be given at an hour that will allow a matinee afterward if desired, or any other form of amusement that has been planned for the afternoon.

A simple menu is never disconcerting and is easily handled. For instance, a cup of bouillon, broth, or a cream soup should start the luncheon. Chops and peas with a baked potato or mashed potatoes may follow, with fried bananas, rolls and hot cocoa. A simple fruit salad is generally liked or a vegetable salad, then the dessert, which may be hot or cold according to convenience. There is nothing complicated about such a meal and it is good and wholesome. Floating Island, hot gingerbread and apple sauce, fruit pudding, fancy cake with jelly are all easily-made desserts and children like them. A little creamed chicken may take the place of the chops, or creamed eggs may be used.

The secret of a good time for all is to ask children who are about of an age and those who are congenial at school. Great differences in age never make a good gathering. Quarrels are almost certain to ensue. Children always rise to an occasion where their own responsibility must be taken into account. Many a mother would be surprised to look in on a luncheon party where her daughter was playing hostess and see how many of her own mannerisms appeared in the young hostess. It would be a revelation to her to see how closely she had been watched and copied unconsciously.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT A Test of Friends

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc

Winifred Black

IF you were the wife of a President of the United States, just how many of your old friends would you invite to come and spend a week with you at the White House?

Think a minute now.

There's Margaret—she's a dear thing, is Margaret! Gentle and sweet and good-humored and so interested in everything and everybody, but Margaret thinks bridge is wicked and she wouldn't listen to a note of jazz to save her life—and if you lived in the White House you'd sometimes have to be very nice to people who play bridge a great deal and who really wouldn't care to live very long if they couldn't jazz once in a while.

No, Margaret wouldn't do for the White House.

There's Molly, now. How would she do?

Molly is as pretty as a pink, but she's a quick-tempered little thing and she's awfully restless if she isn't amused.

Think of sitting Molly down to a long formal dinner, with the minister from a strange far-away land on one side of her and a serious old senator, who thinks women are a bit of a nuisance anyhow, on the other.

Molly would pack her trunk before midnight and be gone before breakfast—Molly wouldn't do at all.

And there's Uncle George. What a dear he was to you the time you borrowed the money and then lost your purse and couldn't pay it back and didn't like to tell your mother about it—just then.

You can see the twinkle in Uncle George's blue eyes to this day, and the money borrowing was all over fifteen years ago.

But Uncle George has political persuasions and he has to argue about them or die. He has lived in the same town, in the same county, in the same state all his life and nobody ever dreams of disputing him, no matter what he says.

Diplomacy Is Demanded

Fancy Uncle George talking about the internal problems of a foreign nation with a citizen of that country, without ever trying to find out how that person really felt about it—before he began to lay down the law.

Cousin Jocelyn might do—but, dear me, she'd go home and talk about the visit till you really couldn't stand it. She'd write letters to everybody she ever knew on the White House stationery, and it would take her years to get over saying: "As Governor So and So said to me when I was visiting at the White House" and "As I said to my cousin, the President's wife, that time I visited her." Why, you'd feel as if you were a wax figure in a show-case before Cousin Jocelyn got through with you!

And there's your father's old friend from back home in your father's village. Honest, intelligent, kindly, devoted to you and all of your blood, but—he goes through a regular sword swallowing contest every time he sits down to the table and never can remember whether he ought to fold his table napkin or crunch it in his hand when he gets through dinner. And he's so nervous about it that he frets from the soup to the dessert, wondering what to do—and you want to lean over the table and tell him and dare not—no, he really wouldn't do, either.

We certainly do belong where we belong, we humans. The hollyhock is the prettiest thing on earth against the wall in an old-fashioned cottage garden, but try to put the hollyhock in the park with nothing to lean against and you begin to wonder how you ever thought you were so fond of it.

What lovely things pansies are, fresh with the dew in the early morning and sweet with the shade of early dusk—but when you pick them and put them into the elaborate vase in the living-room, their stems are too short and half their beauty is lost.

You'd Not Forget Friends

But anyhow, if you were the wife of the President of the United States and did live in the White House, I hope you would remember to invite some of the people to dine with you who really would enjoy it, and not forget all about them and pretend that you were out of town when they tried to telephone you.

For, after all, friendship is just about the sweetest thing in the world, and if you didn't do that you really wouldn't be quite the person to be a President's wife, at all—would you?

ODD and INTERESTING FACTS

Though the tomb of King Tut-ankhamen was located only recently, Pharaoh's ring has lain in the museum of the New York Historical Society for the last sixty years. Its presence in America along with another of that king's rings is explained by the habit of the monarchs of old Egypt of bestowing rings and other personal objects on lucky persons who won their favor. Inscriptions on their tombs frequently picture Pharaohs presenting such trinkets to court and other attendants. Each sovereign was well provided with rings, it seems.

The blue seal ring in the museum of the New York Historical Society was identified as King Tutankhamen's by Dr. Caroline Williams, Egyptologist of the Metropolitan Museum and Bryn Mawr, from a three years study of its inscription. It is part of the collection of Dr. Henry Abbott, an American physician, who practised in Cairo from 1832 to 1852. His accumulation of 3,000 objects was bought by public-spirited citizens and presented to the museum.

The presence of grain in ancient tombs now seems to be well authenticated. Col. William B Thompson, New York banker, who has just returned from Egypt where he visited the burial place of King Tut-ankh-Amen, reports that the old Egyptian tombs contain seeds. He said the Department of Agriculture of the Egyptian government has promised to send him samples. These he will try to propagate at his agricultural research laboratory near Yonkers, N. Y.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes a Novel Daytime Frock with a Tiered Skirt Treatment.

"THERE are so many entrancing new shades for Fall that it's all I can do to keep up with them," Pam remarked to-day.

She was coming from one of the stock-rooms where material is kept with a bolt of lovely crepe in her hand.

"That shade you have is new, isn't it?" I asked.

"Very new," Pam replied.

"And what is it called?" I asked. "I can't seem to get all these new colors into my head."

"It is rosewood," she told me.

"I should remember that because it's just the tone of a rosewood table in our hall at home," I remarked.

"Have you seen the new frock that came down from the designer to-day?" Pam asked.

I hadn't, so she took me into our manikin's room, where the racks that were left more or less empty all Summer are beginning to fill up with gorgeous Fall and Winter frocks.

"This is it," Pam announced, holding up a hanger from which hung a smart crepe frock of exactly the tone of the bolt she held in her hand.

"How perfectly simple and stunning!" I exclaimed.

"I think so too," Pam agreed.

"It's just the kind of Fall frock I'd like, myself, to wear on the street and later under a coat," I said.

"I think these three flat tiers are very smart and very French," Pam pointed out, turning the model about so I could see that the three tiers which adorned the front of the skirt ended at the sides, leaving the back altogether plain.

"Miss Brown has ordered one in bronze color," Pam said.

"Isn't she rather short to wear a three-tiered skirt?" I asked.

"Of course, tiered skirts are more a fashion for the tall, slender woman," Pam agreed. "But the adaptable feature about this frock is that the plain look makes it more becoming for the short person as well as the tall."

She looks adorable in this," Pam continued. "The Dutch collar style is most becoming to her and the tiny hat she bought to go with it frames her face to perfection."

"What color is the hat?" I asked.

"It's the same rosewood tone in felt," Pam replied. "It's relieved by narrow grosgrain ribbon in sulphur yellow."

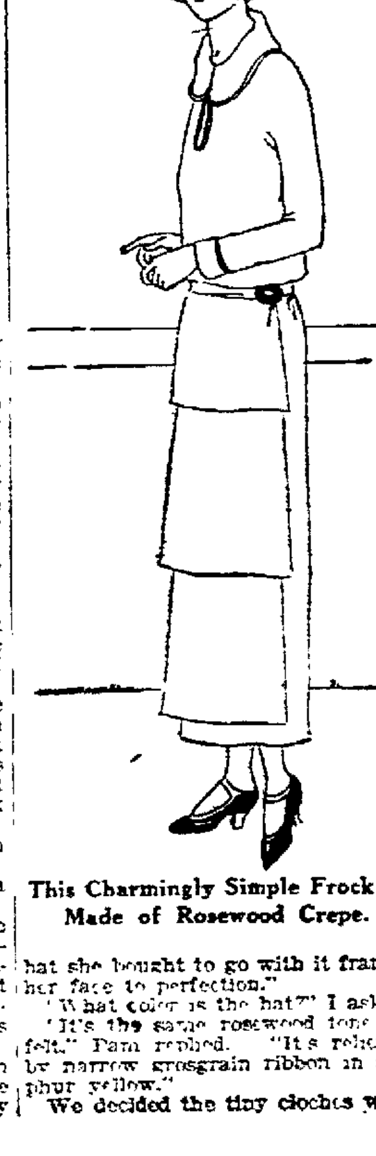

We decided the tiny cloches were not unusual any more, but that it was logical for them to remain, at the height of fashion for some time, simply because of their extreme becomingness.

"After all," Pam remarked, "the smart woman is always the woman who thinks of becomingness first and the fashion of the hour afterward."

"Yes," I agreed. "She can alter the latter to suit her particular personality if she's clever about knowing her own type."

"Just as some hats would look better worn hind part before if the persons who wore them only knew," Pam added.

I smiled, for this experimenting with styles as they were meant to be is a hobby of Pam's.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 23-24.

Sunday's horoscope emphasizes the progress of all ecclesiastical affairs, but warns against travel, change and removal and stresses the disaster that may follow quarrels and litigation.

Those whose birthday it is may have an anxious year but one that may be made prosperous by wise management and avoiding law, quarrels and change. A child born on this day will be fond of travel and change. It may be headstrong unless it is carefully trained, but it will make a business success.

Monday's astrological chart holds a presage for success in the general trend of affairs, but holds, also, the possibility of danger through hurt, accident or personal injury. Avoid the possibility of danger and shun litigation.

Those whose birthday it is should have a year of success in affairs, but are under the menace of danger. A child born on this day should be taught to be careful to avoid all manner of hurt and accident.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
We are two girls 16 and 17 years old. We are keeping steady company with two very nice gentlemen. Should we let them kiss us good night and put their arms around us? We think it is all right since they are so highly respected. We are to be married when we are 18. Don't you think we are old enough to know our own mind? Our parents do not object.

PEACHES AND CREAM.

PEACHES AND CREAM: You are rather young to become engaged, my dears, and it would be well to wait a few years before you make such a serious promise to these young men. Unless you are formally engaged and have your parent's consent, it is unwise to allow them to kiss you or make love to you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a young man twenty years of age and in love with a girl one year younger than I. I have had many girl-friends, but none I could ever marry, for I did not love them. I have never asked this girl to marry me because she has told me that she could never love anybody.

I can't understand this because it doesn't seem natural. This girl goes out with other young men, but I do not go with other girls. She knows that I love her dearly, but she seems to ignore this. She is on my mind all day and all night long and I can't seem to forget her. No matter what happens I shall always love her.

I think she goes out with other friends just to make me jealous. Although I do get jealous, I never let her think so. Please advise me on this matter. P. K. U.

P. K. U.: You are very young, my friend, to be thinking of marriage. Continue to treat this girl with consideration and devotion and in time she may grow to care for you in the way you desire.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
We are two girl chums, 17 and 18 years of age, and would like your advice in a rather perplexing problem.

We have been going for several months with two young men highly respected in our town and are deeply in love with them. We have dates with them two or three times a week and they always treat us in a nice and gentlemanly manner, but have never told us that they love us.

Can you tell us how we can find out if they are in love with us? We are very anxious to know.

TWO FLAPPERS.

TWO FLAPPERS: The only way you will know whether these young men love you is through their asking you to marry them. This is the only test of a man's love.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Z-R 1 STARTS LONG JOURNEY

MANNED BY FIVE OFFICERS AND TWENTY-FIVE MEN.

Soars to Altitude of 4,000 Feet at Lakehurst, N. J., and Turns Nose Toward Washington—To Return at Night.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. — The ZR-1 reached Washington at 1:25 p. m. today.

At 1:30 p. m. the giant airship passed the capitol and sailed down Pennsylvania avenue.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 22.—The United States naval dirigible ZR-1 left the naval air station here at 10:35 a. m. to pay an official visit to Washington, D. C. The airship was manned by a crew of five officers and twenty-five enlisted men.

The dirigible soared to an altitude of 4,000 feet and then turned its nose southwestward for her longest flight at 40 knots an hour.

The ZR-1 upon reaching the capital will circle the Washington monument and the Lincoln memorial. An air visit to the white house will then be paid, the ship dipping its giant bow in salute to the president.

After various maneuvers in Washington, the airship will fly to the Arlington national cemetery to pay homage to the unknown soldier. A wreath will be dropped on the grave.

A flight down the Potomac river to Mount Vernon is then scheduled. The ZR-1 will fly over the tomb of George Washington, dipping its nose three times in a salute.

In the afternoon the ship will participate in an aerial celebration at Bolling field. The return will be made tonight by way of Annapolis.

The ZR-1 planned to broadcast thru its newly installed radio set, messages describing the flight, speed and altitude. All amateurs have been invited to "tune in."

SON WINS FARM FOR SELF

Supreme Court Says Plain Intention of Father Was That He Should Have It.

August John Heyer of Otoe county won in supreme court the suit brought against his mother, Pauline Heyer, to determine what title he has to the farm on which he was reared. His father died over thirty years ago. He left a will in which he gave the farm to his wife for her life time, and after her death it was to go to the son. There was a proviso to the effect that if she found the task of paying off the mortgage on the place too hard, she should be allowed to sell it to pay the debts, if she remained single.

The will was written by a layman, and the question presented to the court was whether the widow could sell the farm now and enjoy the proceeds, she never having remarried. The court says it is not within its province to determine if a man has acted wisely in the disposition of his property, but to find out what he intended to do and give effect to that.

Since the death of the elder Heyer the widow and the children have paid off the mortgage and accumulated a cash surplus, and there is no necessity to sell the farm. The court says it construes the will to mean that Heyer intended to give the widow a life estate, coupled with a power of sale under a certain contingency. It also holds that the contingency contemplated did not arise and such power of sale became and is extinguished. The son will get the farm on his mother's decease.

WILSON LETTER PUBLISHED

Repudiates Candidacy of Senator Shields of Tennessee for Reelection.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 22.—A letter from Woodrow Wilson repudiating the candidacy of United States Senator John K. Shields for reelection was made public here today by Gen. L. D. Tyson, candidate against Shields for the democratic senatorial nomination.

Wilson's letter written from his S street home in Washington August 28, 1923, addressed to W. A. S. Furlow of Bristol, Tenn., stated:

"In reply to your letter of August 25 I do not feel at liberty to say more than this: That I regarded Mr. Shields during my administration as one of the least trustworthy of my professed supporters."

Shields praised the former president in an interview recently. Furlo then wrote to Wilson and received the reply made public today.

Shields, in his interview, said:

"Woodrow Wilson is one of the greatest men the world has ever produced. He was a great president and has been and is now very popular in Tennessee.

"His high place in history is secure and the adulation and mouthings of weaklings and demagogues can add nothing to or detract anything from it."

Tyson, replying to Shields, declared that "Wilson now needs no praise from Shields. All Wilson needed from Shields was his vote for the league of nations at a time when that vote probably meant ratification of the Versailles treaty and as a consequence thereof, the triumph of the democratic party."

JUDGE LISTENS TO PLEA

Man Charged With Non-Support Hailed Into Court Advances Golf as Excuse.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Michael Rohaly pleaded "golf" when he was hailed into Yonkers court for non-support of his wife.

Rohaly said he was training for a tournament and just didn't have time to think about his wife. He said he was busy practicing putting—his one weak point in a strong game—that he couldn't look after her.

"Well, we'll put the case over until Sunday," Judge Boote suggested.

"Aw, your honor, that's my best golfing day. I always shoot my best game on Sunday," pleaded Rohaly.

And so the case was put over until Friday.

HER HEAD —OR— HER HEART

Will She Marry the Man She Loves or the One Who Offers Life's Comforts in Abundance?

BY FAY STEVENSON.

In the Sunlight.

Anne awoke with a different view of life. She had gone to bed disgusted with New York and jealous of Erwin Taylor. But now her one thought was to get Dr. Carr back to Binghamton and go on with her life as she had established it. She even longed to go to another dance with Taylor, altho she knew he would forsake her for other girls. Then she remembered that Dr. Carr was to take her to breakfast and decided to wear a new fall hat and her best blouse.

Dr. Carr was waiting for her in the hall. He looked happy and expectant. His very optimism crushed hers. He was so certain of her. And she felt so certain it was not going to end the way he hoped!

"You look as if you had rested on a pine pillow and dreamed of the gods," he said. "As for me, well, I always sleep well in these New York hotels, quite as well as in Bingbamton."

But over the breakfast table he was not quite so optimistic. "See here, Anne," he said after they had given their order, "you don't belong in this great bustling city. You weren't cut out for a working girl or a boarding house. Duck the whole thing and let's rustle back to Binghamton and have a wedding that will make the old town talk."

Anne bit into a roll and shook her head decidedly.

"Well, if you don't like so much fuss let's get the license today and be married quietly in New York," he continued. "We could just go back and send out our cards."

"You don't understand," she said. "I haven't had my fling at life. I don't say I want to live in New York all my life but I am enjoying myself now. I haven't done half the things New Yorkers do and I'm just learning how to dress and combine colors that blend. I can't go back to Binghamton now and settle down to talking about food recipes and making over last year's dress."

Dr. Carr seemed more interested in his griddle cakes just at present than he did in Anne's philosophy.

"Put the syrup on your cakes, Anne," he said smacking his lips. "I believe these are almost as good as Mrs. Hope makes. Here butter those cakes and talk sense."

Anne heaved a sigh and tried to eat.

"Quit looking at your watch," he complained, "you're not going around to business this morning or any more at all. You and I are going round to the license bureau and get married at The Little Church Around the Corner. It'll be something to tell the folks at home and once a year we'll take a trip to New York and talk over this morning when we had such good griddle cakes together."

Griddle cakes and romance in one mouthful! Anne longed for the art shop and Erwin Taylor. She sipped her coffee hastily and stoop up to adjust her hat in the mirror.

"Want something more?" asked Dr. Carr.

"No, I have to hurry down to the store now. Are you going to take the ten-ten train?"

"Anne! What do you mean by going to the store?"

"I have to go," she said and left him with his mouth full of griddle cakes unable to say a word.

Monday—Conflicting Dates.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Mary Gordon Department: The letter written by Mrs. O., and the account of the visit to the home by the Journal reporter caused my sympathies to be much aroused for the deserted woman and no less for the two little children and the expected one. The mother knows how her heart already aches in anticipating the separation from her children whom she thinks cannot be supported and kept by her but little do the children know of the sad times in store for them if torn from their mother love and care. I lived in a home where two little children whose mother had died, were cared for, and very tenderly cared for too, and I remember that they were often very sad and would beg us to get their mother.

When a child's mother is living can not some way be provided whereby that mother can care for her own and still be comfortable?

Is there not a fund provided by the taxpayers of Lancaster county that can be used in such cases as that of Mrs. O?

Are there not many generous, kind hearted people in Lincoln who would gladly respond to a call for furniture, clothes, etc?

The Japan relief fund keeps growing—which is most laudable—our neighbors who have been visited by such a calamity deserve all we can give.

Why let one little family suffer and be rent asunder when a little help would keep this home together and cause the fire to be kept on the hearth?—Mrs. M.

A. I am taking this opportunity of thanking the many, many kind persons who have offered to help Mrs. O and her little family. Her case is in competent and charitable hands and there is no need of a public appeal for funds for her, at this time.

Dear Mary Gordan: I have been a constant reader of your column and find it very interesting indeed. But I sometimes wonder if mothers think of the prenatal influence on their children. I am the mother of eight children and while I was always hoping each one would be the last, when I found another soul had been left in my care I tried to adjust myself to conditions and be happy for baby's sake.

Now my oldest boy is seventeen years and the baby two, and let me tell you they are a wonderful comfort to me in my time of real trouble. My only brother was killed in Germany and we only received word of it some two months ago and three days later my husband left with a sixteen year old girl. All together I thought it would kill me. But we seem to be able to stand more than we think for.

I went home to my mother and found a position. I am very lonely, but oh so glad I have my children.

I am only a young woman—thirty-four years old—and was always happy and light-hearted. Now I get so unhappy at times it seems I can't stand it. When those dark times come I always find comfort in the thought of the youngsters, so please, dear ladies, when you find a little stranger is coming to your home create a feeling of love for it altho you don't know what you will do with any more. You never know just what that one will mean to you.—Betty Lu.

Dear Mary, excuse haste. Am writing this during my lunch hour.

A. Children are their own reward, I think. Sometimes only the mother knows it, but she always realizes it, sooner or later.

You are bearing your trouble bravely. Indeed, we all can endure much more than we imagine.

Dear Mary Gordon: Don't you think a girl of 25 has the right to marry with out father consent is she old enough to pick out her own man This man I go with I find a gentleman in ways but there been lies put to my father and he object to his company but I go any way Intend to marry in year could I draw wages as I took care of the family and stayed all these year This man has enough to live on but put him off year as to take up a little school work What do you think also some of the rest—old maid

A. I think if a woman is ever going to be a good judge of mankind, she will be at twenty-five.

If you are sure your father's dislike is founded on false tales, you are justified in making your own choice.

I'm afraid you can't demand anything for the work you have done at home, unless there was some sort of agreement to that effect. I am sorry. However, ask a lawyer, telling him all the circumstances.

Why don't you work for someone else until you are married? That way you would have a little money of your own for your "hope chest" and bridal outfit.

Corn Relish.

2-3 cup chopped onion.
7-8 cup green and red peppers.
7 1-2 cups fresh corn.
2 cloves of garlic.
3 1-2 cups cabbage.
1-4 cup salt (or to taste)
2 cups sugar.
1-3 cup cider vinegar.
1 ounce dry mustard.

Put onions, green and red peppers, corn, cabbage and garlic thru the food chopper separately and measure after chopping.

Combine all ingredients except mustard and boil slowly 45 minutes. Mix the mustard into a paste with some vinegar, add to cooked vegetables and boil 10 minutes longer. Pour into hot jars and seal.

NEAR AUTUMNAL EQUINOX

At 9:04 p. m. Sunday Earth to Reach and Pass Point When Days and Nights Are Equal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—At 9:04 o'clock tomorrow night the earth will reach and pass that point in space in its journey around the sun when days and nights are exactly equal. It is the autumnal equinox. At only one other moment during the year are the same conditions reproduced, on March 21, when the vernal equinox occurs.

A strange series of changes in earthly conditions will commence in various portions of the globe at 9:04. At the north pole the sun will dip beneath the horizon, to be visible no more until March 21 next, when it will again appear on the rim of the polar disk. From today until December 21, its plunge into gloom will be deeper and deeper; from December 21 to March 21 it will commence its return toward the light of day.

Exactly opposite conditions prevail at the south pole. At 9:04 tonight a person at the pole would see the sun for the first time in six months, low on the rim of the horizon, to be visible without break for a half-year. Day by day the sun will creep higher and higher into the skies, shedding a warmth little felt because of the influence of the eternal ice fields south of the Antarctic circle, which prevent the temperature ever from rising above freezing. The sun will continue to rise until December 21, when it will stand 23½ degrees above the horizon, its maximum heighth there, but lower than that at which it is ever seen in American latitudes. Beginning December 21, it will commence to retrograde toward the horizon and another six months of darkness.

FOUR HURT IN TANK BLAST

Explosion on Ship Seriously Injures Some of the Men Aboard.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—Four men were seriously injured when the boiler of the oil tank William F. Herrin exploded at Avon, near here today.

The tanker, belonging to the Associated Oil company, was towed out into Suisuin bay when fire which followed the explosion threatened to destruction of 445 barrels of distillate which was on board.

Fire tugs from San Francisco were sent to help fight the fire. Members of the crew stayed aboard the ship, fighting the flames which were making rapid headway.

STOCKHOLM, (By Mail).—The Swedish government has raised $72,000 thru a lottery to aid artists in straightened circumstances. Pictures and sculptures will be purchased and placed in schools and other government institutions.

However the judge made no definite move stating that he would take the case under advisement before further action.

The supreme court entered an order Saturday reinstating the order entered by Judge Pemberton in Gage county in December, 1920, which gave Mrs. Grace Goldenstein $8,000 alimony in her divorce suit with Frank Goldenstein. After Judge Pemberton retired from the bench, Judge Colby reopened the case on the motion of defendant, who claimed that untruthful testimony had been offered on behalf of his wife. Judge Colby set aside the $8,000 permanent alimony, and awarded her $20 a month for herself and $20 for the two children. She appealed, and now gets the original judgment reinstated.

Conviction of Charles Fulton by a federal jury Friday night left District Attorney Don W. Stewart with a record of no acquittals in the two years that he has been prosecuting the government's cases in the Lincoln division. One jury disagreed but the defendant shortly thereafter pleaded guilty. Fulton was convicted on two out of six counts against him, charging possession and sale of liquor on June 18, as testified to by Thomas Hyde. The jury accepted Fulton's alibi for May 27 and June 7, on which dates he had several witnesses to his presence at baseball games in Beatrice.

Accomplishments of the insurance subdivision led the chamber of commerce to send out letters Saturday to similar bodies thruout the state, recommending the formation of groups to look after the insurance business in its public service aspects. The letter points out that various companies pay $500,000 a year into the state coffers, yet only $26,000 is expended on the department that is expected to supervise every line of insurance and protect the people in their investment. One object of the insurance subdivision is to bring the state department to a realization of the importance of this business and

ORDINANCES NOT SEVERE

CANNOT COMMIT TO JAIL FOR ANY VIOLATION.

Worst Any Man Can Get Under City Laws Is Fine of Hundred and Costs—One Lone Chance of Being Jugged.

It's a most difficult thing to go to jail under the city ordinances. They are almost exclusively commercial and even commercialism, under the city's little don't book is limited to a margin of one hundred and costs.

One convicted under the ordinances finds that he can go to jail only upon one condition—his failure to pay whatever fine may be assessed. The icty's power under the ordinances to imprison extends only to non-payment of what the police judge says is fair and just.

In times past there have been occasions when the city has deemed it prudent to borrow permission from the county attorney to prosecute under the statutes. These, of course, are more drastic than city laws. They were drafted by 100 representatives and 33 senators while the city lawmaking body consists of but five men.

It is possible that the county commissioners and the county attorney may at some future time object to the city's mooching of the statutes. At this time there is considerable debate as to whether or not the charter be amended to correspond with the statutes in regard to speeders. It is even suggested that both the statutes and the ordinance go hand in hand a step further and provide machinery for depriving a reckless driver use of his car.

The statutory penalty upon conviction for speeding, first offense, is a fine not to exceed $50. Second offenders may be fined not to exceed $100, sentenced to sixty days in jail or both. One who, while violating the law by reckless driving, disfigures another or causes a death may, under the statutes, be fined from $200 to $500 or be sent to the penitentiary to from one to ten years.

Legislation limiting automobile distribution in Nebraska to cars capable of going at no greater speed than the law permits, has been discussed. Any such provision, it is argued, would bring about a peculiar state of affairs unless it were national in scope. Eastern and western high-speed tourists would dip thru Nebraska in cars capable of doing their 70 to 75 miles an hour and sometimes doing it while home cars would be stalling along at from 30 to 35. It is hinted that even with lawlessness involved, there may be an unfair discrimination.

mob who went to his home to whip him and run him out of the country. Two klansmen were also killed in that fight.

Walton's Charge.

Governor Walton said that sufficient evidence had been obtained to warrant 'prosecution of "any man in the United States who joined the k. k. k. and remained in that organization long enough to know its ultimate purposes as an accomplice either before or after the facts."

Continuing, he said:

"When any man is mobbed, murdered, mutilated or flogged, every member of the organization is guilty of the crime as an accomplice unless he promptly withdrew and severed his connections when he discovered the ku klux klan as an organization was mobbing, murdering, mutilating and flogging a member of the human race."

The governor said he was not in favor of censorship of press as such action would not be understood outside the state and would lead to an unfavorable press reaction.

"That was demonstrated when military censorship was applied to the Tulsa Tribune. I received some 'hot' messages from good friends all over the country opposing the move," the governor admitted. "Therefore I am going to stand for the klan papers of the state as long as I can," he concluded.

Several messages from various organizations and individuals thruout the country lauding his stand against the klan were read to the newspaper men by the governor. He declared they were pouring into the capitol at the rate of 200 and 300 a day.

The whole conference was unanimous in adopting a memorial to the general conference asking the return of Bishop Stuntz for another four years.

The memorials turned down included one for election instead of appointing of district superintendents, which was lost by a vote of 154 to 11; the election of bishops for a term of eight, instead of four years, the reconstruction of the course of study, taking the matter practically from the bishops, and one from South Dakota relating to a change in boundaries for the Nebraska conference. It was voted to ask the general conference if any change in boundaries is necessary, to make by bringing the northwest conference into the Nebraska conference. This latter policy received a vote of 221 to 1.

Unanimous approval was obtained of a memorial asking [illegible] of the benevolence boards of the church, also of one to reduce episcopal areas, reduce the number of bishops by at least three and appoint no new bishops in 1924.

The purchase of two lots opposite Ellen Smith hall on R street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth, as a cost of $6,500, for a Methodist religious center for students of the University of Nebraska, was reported by Dr. Charles Fordyce of the Wesleyan foundation board. Dr. Fordyce said a building had already been designed to meet the needs of students. The lots are paid for and $3,500 from the board of missions remains on hand for the project. The student body at the state institution was said to have included 1,200 Methodists last year, and 500 Methodist freshmen have already entered this year. From fifteen to twenty students of the state university were said to be dedicated to Christian service. The parsonage will be built as the first unit to serve as a social center. A resolution was introduced for a 7 cents per member tax for the project, but was reserved to the committee on finance. A board of trustees to serve four years was elected as follows: F. A. Carmony, Randolph; H. F. Huntington, Lincoln; W. G. Bishop, University Place; C. O. Bruce, Lincoln.

Bishop Stuntz said the dynamic power of the work in the University of Nebraska, in charge of Rev. H. F. Huntington, is unequaled by any pastorate in the state.

The report on the Methodist hospital at Omaha showed that 4,185 patients had been cared for during a year at an average cost of $3.72. Of this number, 2,354 were free or at least part free patients. Cost of the free service was given as $44,477.

HE BELIEVES COAL COMBINE CRUMBLING

Governor Bryan Predcts Future Punishment for Dealers Who Use His Name to Deceive.

"The national retail dealers coal combination in this state is crumbling," said Governor Bryan Saturday as he held up a sheaf of letters and bank drafts sent in by city officials and others who dseire to buy soft coal at mine prices. "The dealers have in many instancse had to reduce their prices $3 to $5 a ton.

When asked if any coal ordered thru him had actually been delivered he said it requires about two weeks to get an order started and filled and to transport the coal to destination.

The governor was asked if he had a remedy or punishment for dealers who offer a poor grade of coal as "Bryan coal."

"It may not be as hot for them in this world as it will be in the next," he said. 'Any shortage of thermal units here may be made up in the next world.'

While Governor Bryan is offering to sell soft coal to the people of the entire state the state board of control continues to buy for state institutions thru dealers and wholesalers. Governor Bryan explains this by saying the board of control buys little except steam coal, a kind he is not offering for sale at mine prices. The board of control is said to have bought steam coal for 60 cents a ton at the mine.

Governor Bryan said he was misquoted as saying the $8.25 coal offered by the municipal coal yard in Lincoln is sold for $1.25 too much. He did not put it that way. He tried to say that there is only 25 cents difference in the mine price of the $8.25 and the $9.50 kind of coal ouered for sale by the Lincoln municipal coal yards. He desired to call attention to a difference of only 25 cents a ton at the mine and a difference of $1.25 a ton at the municipal coal yard.

stabilize currency, urging the population against signing the new gold loan. Communist agitators pointed to the sad experiences of those who subscribed to the war-time loans, which now are worthless.

The coal shortage is swelling food prices with consequent ferment among the people. It is noticeable that women are taking an active part in the agitation. There are daily scenes in nearly all market places created by women remonstrating against high prices.

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—Revolution in Germany may start at any hour, the official newspaper Pravda declared in an editorial today.

The editorial, apparently dictated by M. Bukharin, was taken to reflect the official Russian attitude toward a German outbreak, which Russian experts consider almost inevitable now that the German communists seem to have support of a majority of the workmen.

The writer predicted a proletariat victory but declared the real test of revolution would come a few days later when the reactionary elements recovered from their first defeat.

"Bavaria and the Rhineland will assume a counter-revolutionary role similar to our own experience with the Cossacks of the Don and Kuban districts" the editorial said.

The writer predicted the British fleet probably would transform the Baltic harbors into bases sympathetic to the Bavarian and Rhineland counter-revolutionists while Poland probably would begin a crusade against the bolshevik.

"We would not be surprised if Poland should attack us as friends of the German proletariat, the defeat of whom would endanger Russia," the editorial said.

BAPTISTS IN CONVENTION

NEW TESTAMENT CHRISTIAN THE KEYNOTE SATURDAY.

Speakers During Morning Session Present Different Viewpoints Relatnig to Relationship of Members to Church.

"The New Testament Christian" was the key subject at the Saturday morning convention of the First Nebraska Baptist association convened at the Second Baptist church.

"The New Testament Christian in the Sunday services of Worship," was presented by Rev. J. W. Neyman of Nebraska City. "The New Testament Christian in the Bible School," Rev. J. D. Collins, of Lincoln." "The New Testament Christian's obligation to the church," E. S. Gunn of Lincoln. R. S. Proudfit of Friend gave a summary of the subjects handled by the proceeding speakers.

The central thought brought out by Mr. Neyman was the proper attitude of reverence which should characterize the New Testament Christian. The time of worship he said should be the time for the Christian to meditate on his relationship to God and duty to his fellow men.

Mr. Collins who is the state worker for the Baptist church in Nebraska and is in close touch with the young people of the church, stressed the importance of Bible school study. He pointed out that early youthful impressions are the most lasting in shaping and moulding of the youth and that it is the Bible school that plays such an important part in forming and preserving Christian idetals. E. S. Gunn discussed financial matters He advocated tithing as the scriptural method of taking care of the financial interests of all branch of the church work. Mr. Gunn advocated a systematic method of support as against the present haphazard means of raising funds for the running of the churches.

R. M. Proudfit said that never in the history of the world is the church of God more needed than now, and Christians should not miss the opportunity to attend the house of worship regularly. Mr. Proudfit declared that no other organization would last six months if it handled its financial affairs in the careless way most of the churches do. He held it was marvelous what the church has accomplished when the woeful lack of its business methods is considered.

Luncheon was served at the church at the noon hour. At the men's luncheon, Oak Davis of Lincoln was the toastmaster. Five responded to toasts. Saturday afternoon the convention gave over part of its time to a meeting of the women of the association. The convention will close Sunday afternoon.

YOUTH CONFESSES STEALING AN AUTO

Car Bearing "Hollywood to New York" Sign Taken in Los Angeles, Admits William Carley.

William Carley, twenty-three years old, confessed to police Saturday morning that he stole the Studebaker auto, that he and J. Shaffer Orth, twenty, drove into Lincoln at 5:40 p. m. Friday when they were spotted and arrested by Speed Officer Gross at Seventeenth and O streets. Captain of Detectives Anderson obtained a signed statement Saturday forenoon from Carley in which the latter told of stealing the auto from near the Christy Hotel in Los Angeles on September 2. He says that he is willing to be returned to Los Angeles without extradition papers.

On the hood of the auto is inscribed the words, "Hollywood to New York." Orth stoutly maintains that he did not know that the car had been stolen when accepted an invitation from Carley to ride east. Carley claims to be a former student of Yale and Dartmouth. He was attired in a white sweater and a golf suit. He says that his home is in New Haven, Conn. Two other lads rode from Los Angeles to Manhatten, Kas., in the auto, according to Carley's statement. Orth did admit to Captain Anderson that he began to suspect something wrong when they arrived at Manhattan and that his suspicions srystallized Friday evening when he noticed Carley turn pale as Officer Gross stopped the auto. Orth says that his home is in England.

Carley told officers Friday night that he borrowed the auto from a friend. The machine is a 1922 model with a speedster body. Carley later began to admit details of the auto theft until the complete confession was obtained. He will be returned to California, according to Captain Anderson but the latter has not stated what will be done with Orth.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

LAYMEN FIGHT FOR FOOTHOLD

SEEK REPRESENTATION IN THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

They Allege They Pay the Bills and Should Therefore Have a Voice in Way Money Should Be Expended.

The laymen's Methodist conference, an affiliated or subsidiary body of the Nebraska Methodist conference, wants representation. The laymen in knocking at the door of the ministeral conference point out that as they are called upon to pay the bills they should have a voice and a vote as to how the money they pull out of their pockets should be spent.

The question of lay representation was one of the live topics before the lay conference held Friday in the East Lincoln Baptist church, two blocks from Grace church where the big conference was under way. The lay conference meets only every four years. A laymen's association meets each year.

The general conference which meets in May, 1924, at Springfield, Mass., was memorialized to give the laymen representation in the annual conferences which of course includes Nebraska. Along this line the Nebraska laymen voted unanimously for the concurrent recommendation of the Nebraska plan for establishing lay conferences each year by a vote of 155 to nothing. This plan, it is hoped, will settle the burning question of lay representation in the annual conferences.

Debate featured a discussion of the matter of entertaining ministerial delegates at the annual conference. E. M. Avery of University Place was considered to have inspiration when he made a motion to extend an invitation to the Nebraska Methodist conference to make Epworth lake park its permanent meeting place. The motion was caried by a big vote and it is now up to the conference.

Mr. Avery said that there are eighty-three cottages in the park that will not be used when the conference meets which are available; a hotel capable of housing fifty people and that Epworth hall could be boarded up nicely and used as a meeting place. Other attractive features were pointed out as inducements.

Miss Ella Watson of Lincoln was elected delegate-at-large to the general Methodist conference. The following were named delegates:

Omaha district, George M. Schultz.
Lincoln district, Mr. Shefelbein.
Beatrice district, Frank Defoe.
Hastings district, W. A. Fellers.
Holdrege district, C. E. Freas.
Columbus district, G. H. Gray.
Kearney district, John N. Dryden.
Norfolk district, C. A. Randall.

Judge George Spurlock of York; E. M. Avery of University Place, and M. D. Cameron of Omaha were elected as alternates. The conference adjourned sine die at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Delegates elected by the laymen will meet Saturday to confer with the ministerial delegates to the general conference elected Friday.

PROFESSOR FILES APPEAL

Will Test in Supreme Court Tom Majors' Right to Discharge Him as Instructor.

Prof. J. Lawrence Eason, recently head of the English department at the Peru state normal, is to give the supreme court a chance to say whether Col. Tom Majors acted within the scope of legal authority when he discharged him in the middle of his term.

The petition in error was filed in that court Friday. It is an action in quo warranto to determine by what right Mr. Majors acted as he did and then named E. C. Beck to succeed him. The district court sustained a demurrer by Mr. Majors, which has the legal effect of admitting as true, for the purpose of the case, what is charged in the petition, but insisting that it does not state a cause of action.

Mr. Majors is understood to have acted on what he claimed was authority from the state normal board to cut expenses at Peru to meet the decreased appropriation. Mr. Eason claims that it was not for that purpose that he was let out because Mr. Beck is to receive later a larger salary than was paid him.

ELKS CARNIVAL IS TONIGHT

Will Stage Big Night of Fun at Capital Beach as Part of Fall Festival.

The Elks will have their big carnival night at Capital Beach as a part of their fall festival. Everyone is expected to be in gala attire and confetti, serpentine, hats, and everything that goes with a night of real fun will be on hand.

During the week the Elks have decorated the beach completely. The gay uniforms of the band, the colored lights and the splashes of purple everywhere add to the beauty of the park. The lady concessionaires, sales of cakes, silk hose, umbrellas, lamps, beads, neckties, etc., has been one of the amusing and drawing parts of the program. The KinKaid Kilties have made a real hit with their songs, dances and Scotch band concerts.

Sunday the Elks close the frolic and close the beach for the season. The program includes two big band concerts afternoon and evening by the Elks band of forty-five artists.

down the bank, and cleared the wreckage excepting, as he says, "his right hind foot could not keep up," and was caught by a corner of the overturning beet rack.

Mr. Mathers stayed with the fencing job the remainder of the afternoon, which he realizes now he should not have done. The sprain and bruise is very painful. While it will be impossible to keep Mr. Mathers quiet, he will get about with difficulty for some time. An X-ray will be taken to determine what if any bones are broken or fractured.

DOUBLES TANK CAR TAX

STANDARD OIL GETS RAISE IN NEBRASKA.

State Board Increases Annual Tax of Union Tank Car Company From $15,675 to $31,492.

The state board of assessment, comprising Governor Bryan, Secretary of State Pool, Tax Commissioner W. H. Smith, Treasurer C. D. Robinson and Auditor George W. Marsh held a meeting Friday afternoon and increased the taxes of the Union Tank Car company for the year 1923 from $27,193 to $31,492. Last year the company paid a tax of $15,675. The tax this year was first computed on a basis of an average of ninety miles a day per car. At the meeting Friday this basis was changed to eighty miles a day, and this change is one cause of the increase in the tax. The company had asked that the basis be changed to 139 miles a day.

This company is said to be one of the Standard Oil company subsidiaries. It now controls practically all the output of the Wyoming oil wells. Its tank cars must pass thru Nebraska territory. To route them thru Colorado or Kansas means a longer haul. Consequently the business of shipping increases with the output and as a result the total mileage, as figured under the Nebraska law, is growing. In 1922 the railroads reported that business in Nebraska showed that one car would have to travel 27,533,000 miles to equal the number of miles traveled by all cars used by this company in Nebraska. In 1923 the mileage on this same basis was reported to be 52,148,000 miles. Next year the mileage is expected to reach 70,000,000.

The company paid $12,000 taxes in Nebraska in 1920, $13,838 in 1921, $15,675 in 1922 and will pay $31,492 in 1923. All other tank car companies, most of which are oil tank car companies, will pay $34,000 taxes in Nebraska this year.

MRS. ETTA KLINE IS DEAD

Former Lincoln Woman Passed Away at Glenrock, Wyo.

Mrs. Etta Kline, a former resident of Lincoln for over thirty years, died after a short illness of a week at the home of her sons at Glenrock, Wyo., late Thursday night. She was the wife of Peter Kline who died in Lincoln about five years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Kline made their home at 1635 F street during their residence here. The body will be brought to Lincoln at 1 p. m. Saturday and the funeral services will be held from the chapel of Castle, Roper & Matthews at 2 p. m. Sunday. Rev. Rabbi Singer will have charge of the services and burial will be made in Wyuka.

Mrs. Kline was born sixty-two years ago in Europe. In 1883 she was married to Peter Kline and shortly after their marriage the couple came to this country to make their home. They came to Lincoln about 1890. To this union were born two daughters, Frances and Ida and three sons, Dave of Riverton, Wyo., and Ernest and Morris of Glenrock, Wyo. Shortly after her husband's death she left with her two daughters for California where they made their home at San Francisco and Los Angeles for brief periods. At the time of her death she was visiting her son in Glenrock, Wyo., preparatory to leaving for New York city to make her home.

WARRING COUNTRIES DRUNK SAYS PHELPS

Methodist Temperance Board Worker Is Principal Speaker Friday at Evening Session of Annual Conference.

> Superintendent M. E. Gilbert of the Kearney district and Rev. A. A. Randall, pastor of the Methodist church at Fremont, were elected to general conference at the ballot taken at Grace church Friday afternoon. Another ballot to elect the last two delegates has been taken, and its results will be known Saturday morning.

"Every great nation that ever went to war was drunk, and the world will never be at peace until prohibition is universal," declared Guy Fitch Phelps, field secretary of the Methodist temperance board at the Friday evening temperance session of the conference being held at Grace church. "Christ should not be thought of as with a lamb in His arms, for peace he never intended before the gutters of cities should be cleaned of their spue."

Doctor Phelps was chief speaker at the meeting. Rev. F. A High, president of the Nebraska anti-saloon league gave a review of liquor conditions in Nebraska and of the need to attack "John Barleycorn" who, "too dead, needs burying."

Doctor Phelps attacked that church "the ministers of which wear robes so that one can't tell whether God intended them for men or women, and which shelters eight out of ten bootleggers that are brought into court." Not only that denomination, but every state religion in Europe is the deepest trench of the liquor traffic, he said. The greatest drunkard mills in England are owned by the rich, ecclesiastical class.

"I love the bootlegger in comparison with the man in robes who made him one. In the home of one such minister there was found sixty cases of 'white mule,' for use in the church, I suppose. If I have to celebrate the death of Jesus Christ in alcoholic liquor, I'll take my chance in hell."

Conditions in respect to booze in Nebraska are very good, in comparison with those in surrounding states, according to Rev. Mr. High. Tom Carroll, state law enforcement officer, was present and was introduced by the speaker as one of the men "whom all the money in Nebraska couldn't buy."

BURGLARS LIKE A VARIETY

Enter Four Places at Stamford During Thursday Night, But Gather Little Loot.

Burglars operating in Stamford, Neb., Thursday night indicated a desire for variety. They sampled the goods and wares of the Davis Drug company, the Farmers' store, the Stamford Lumber company and the depot. According to word reaching law enforcement headquarters late Friday, the loot was small.

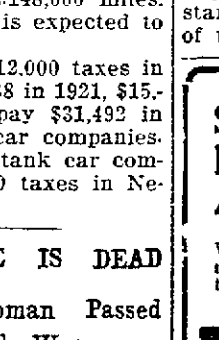

Suspicion points to home talent. There have been several similar small town stunts of late. In a number of cases, burglars have exhibited this tendency to get around over much territory without appropriating much of value.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 22.—Fully half of the 6,000,000 liquor prescriptions that reach the Illinois prohibition director's office each year are bogus, declares an official who will start a check of names and addresses of the prescriptions of 1922.

Jesse Sweetser One Up on Marston at End of First Nine

QUAKER YOUTH AFTER AMATEUR GOLF TITLE

Starting as an Obscure Entry Max Marston Battled Way to Finals —Jerry Travers Only Champion to Repeat.

FLOSSMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept 22.—Jess Sweetser, New York, took an early lead against Max Marston, Philadelphia, in the championship round of the National Amateur golf tournament here today.

Sweetser, defending his title, was one up on Marston at the ninth hole. They were even after the eighth, but the champion slipped ahead at the turn, winning the ninth, 4 to 5.

Marston was playing top notch golf and was pressing Sweetser hard for every advantage. He won the seventh when the champion was stymied and then took the eighth with a birdie three. Sweetser won the fourth, sixth and ninth. The card, morning round:

Sweetser, out, 535 445 444—38
Marston, out, 535 547 335—40

BY EDWARD C. DERR

FLOSSMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Seppt. 22.—A young man from the city of Quakers—six days ago an obscure entry in the national amateur golf tournament—today set out to win the highest amateur golf honors in America.

Maxwell Marston, whose defeat of Bobby Jones and Francis Ouimet on two successive days was the outstanding upset of the tournament, today pitted his skill against the reigning king of the amateurs, Jess Sweetser, the handsome youth from New York

Travers Only Repeater

Not since 1913 when Jerry Travers won the title for the second consecutive time, has a champion been able to repeat. Sweetser, however was a 7 to 5 favorite to break the ten year precedent by defeating the young Philadelphian.

Almost as surprising as Marston's spectacular climb thru the large field of stars has been Sweetser's steady game, bringing him up to the final round. Since winning the title at Brookline last year, Sweetser has played indifferent golf and this, coupled with the belief that the champion could not repeat, left him out in the cold when the dopesters were picking a new champion. But Sweetser has come back! His game is a game of a champion. He is calm and poised on every shot. It will take uncanny golf on the part of Marston to dethrone the king.

A championship match was never played under more ideal weather conditions than those which greeted Sweetser and Marston today. The sun was out early and shone brightly down on the soft greens. The air was crisp and cold but there was little wind to interfere with driving.

Starting Time Set Back

Both the morning and afternoon rounds were set back an hour from the usual starting time, in order that Chicagoans could get to Flossmoor by train to witness the match.

CRETE COACH HAS BOTH EXTREMES ON HI TEAM

CRETE, Neb., Sept. 22.—Coach L. F. Klein of the local high school eleven believes that he has the biggest and smallest football players in the state high school football circle. Harry Karsenbrock takes the honors for the biggest. In the physical examinations recently made of the squad, Karsenbrock measured 6 feet 9 1-4 inches and weighed 193 pounds. Coach Klein has put this young giant at center. Bill Horney, smallest member of the squad, is 3 feet 6 inches and weighs 97 pounds. Horney is playing quarter on the second team.

Lincoln Bowlers to Compete in Omaha

The Lincoln Alleys, a bowling team picked from the sixteen-pound ball wielders on the local maple lanes, will compete against hte Farnum Alley's Five on the Omaha alleys, Sunday. A return match will be played on the Lincoln alleys next week. Phil Wadhams, P. Braun, H. C. Stitzer, Jim Stemas and Bill McCabe will compose the local pin splitting aggregation.

TEAM MATCHES PLANNED HERE

Omaha and Hastings Bowlers to Play On Neutral Alleys.

Four Standard Oil teams of Omaha, two of men and as many of women, will bowl a team match against four Hastings quintets, on the Lincoln alleys October 6. The teams want to play off a match on some neutral maple lanes.

BEING A GOOD BOY PAYS THE BAMBINO

Ruth Considered Greatest of All Players by Managers and Critics This Season—Had Three Ambitions to Start.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Picked as the most valuable player in the American league, the prize award of baseball, Babe Ruth has scored another one for the moralists who like to point out the assets of being a good boy.

The straight and narrow path that he has followed this season has done noble things by the Big Bam. He has played baseball like no other player of the modern game and he has been so good at his stuff that managers and players of rival clubs are ready to hand him the crown as the greatest of all players.

Babe Had Three Ambitions

Ruth started the season with three ambitions and perhaps he will fail in the accomplishment of only one. The Babe promised, first of all, to be good and he lived up to it. He aspired to win the home run championship again and lead the league in batting. He may pull thru with both titles.

Getting into the last lap of the pennant season, Ruth is only four points behind Harry Heilmann, the Detroit star, who is leading the batters with an average of .390.

When the Yankees came back from the last western trip the Babe was leading the league in batting and he looked almost a cinch to win the honors but he found a slump waiting for him and fell way off in his batting. He has the idea in his head that he can't hit in the Yankee stadium and it turned out to be a real mental hazard for him.

Will Probably Press

Ruth's greatest ambition is to do something in the world's series. The intensity of his desire to cover up the busts he made in the last two series, with the Giants may serve, however, to defeat him in his purpose. He may try too hard and he is liable to throw himself way off.

Last year when the writers in eight cities marked a ballot for the most valuable players, in the league. Ruth was not even mentioned and this year he got every vote. No one in the future will be able to do better than tie the mark that the swat king made this season.

Papyrus Starts for America on "Plush"

The two horses are quartered in comfortable stalls padded with air cushions and they can fraternize over a small barred door which separates the two stalls.

TRAFFIC COPS WELCOME FIRPO'S DEPARTURE NOW

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — The most interesting news item to the New York police today was the word that Luis Angel Firpo plans to sail for the Argentine, October 6. Firpo has become a traffic problem. He is now appearing regularly on the streets in his big auto, which has a blazing portrait of the "Bull of the Pampas" on the door and every time he appears there is a traffic jam as crowds gather to gaze upon the South American fighter.

Giants Have Flag Practically "In"

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Five more victories in the nine games remaining on their schedule will cinch the National league pennant for the New York Giants and send them into the world's series for their third straight crack at the New York Yankees

The double victory over the Pirates yestreday made the Giant club almost a certainty for the pennant.

One postponed game on the schedule rmains with the St. Louis Cards, but it is doubtful if the game will be played and in this case all the Giants have to do to win the pennant is to split even in eight games even if the Cincinnati Reds win all the remaining eight games on their program.

The Giants have one more game with the Pirates, two with the Reds, four with the Robins and one with the Braves If the Giants win the two games from the Reds, the pennant will be "in."

The eight games remaining for hte Reds consist of two each with the Giants, Pirates, Cardinals and Robins and the job of winning every one of them is almost an impossibility.

Swanson Helps Out With Midland Team

FREMONT, Neb., Sept. 21.—Clarence Swanson, University of Nebraska all-American end and captain two years ago, has joined the Midland football coaching staff in preparation for the game with Creighton scheduled for September 29. The Braves, under Coach Dick Hanley, former Washington Universtar, have a schedule this season calling for extensive travel.

FIVE LETTER MEN AT WAUNETA

Schedule Is Open for November Dates—Won First Game.

WAUNETA, Neb., Sept. 22.—With five letter men back and new material that looks good, Wauneta is looking forward to a winning football team this year. It was demonstrated last week in an early game with Imperial in which Wauneta came out with the long end of the score 40 to 0 that the team is fast and hard hitting.

There are several open dates in which games would like to be scheduled with other teams. All the dates in November are to be filled yet. If any team has the Thanksgiving date open and would like to schedule a game here it would be acceptable.

Sincerely yours, F. L. Moore, Supt.

H. Reed Will Manage York Featherweight

Harry Reed, who has been handling Ace Hudkins of Lincoln and has been instrumental in aiding his protege to cop off the state featherweight title, has announced that he will manage Rusty Evans of York in the future. Evans, according to Reed, will be ready to meet any battler in his class after six weeks. The announcement came after Reed had broken with Hudkins.

Kansas Jayhawkers Have Team Which Averages 175 Pounds For 1923 Fight

Heaviest Squad in Several Years Working Out Under Coach Clark Whose Assistants Now Number Five.

LAWRENCE, Kas., Sept. 22.—Eleven letter men and some forty others have been working out under the Kansas University football coaches since September 15. The new men in many instances are showing class that means some of the regulars will have to step lively to hold first string berths this season.

According to George Potsy Clark, head coach, the Jayhawk teams will probably average about 175 pounds this season which is somewhat heavier than a Kansas team has been for some years past.

Increase Coaching Staff

The K. U. coaching staff has been increased to five in order to keep as big a varsity squad as possible all thru the season. Two new assistants were appointed just recently, they being Tad Reid, former star K. U. end, and Edwin B. Shultz, all-American tackle in 1915 from Washington and Lee university, who is now Y. M. C. A secretary at K. U. Karl Schlademan will coach the K. U. line this season as usual and John Buun, former K. U. athlete, will coach the freshmen.

The letter men include Charlie Black, formerly end, who is now being worked out at quarterback: Harold Burt, backfield. Max Krueger, former back who has been shifted to end; Melvin Griffin and John McLean ends; Bob Mosby and Allan Davidson, tackles, Haley Fraker and Freese, guards; and John Lonborg, center. Black, Davidson, Griffin, Krueger and McLean are two letter men.

Gerald Smith, former Kansas conference backfield star at Pittsburg normal, is showing up in early practice as the most likely punter on the squad. Joe Pleasant, former Notre Dame freshman, is proving to be a whirlwind at end and in addition packs a lot of drop kicking ability.

Have Six Home Games

The Kansas schedule calls for six of eight games at home, the ones away being with Nebraska and Oklahoma. The opening game is with Creighton university of Omaha, October 6.

ILLINOIS HALFBACK OUT WITH INJURIES

Robison Forced to Turn in His Suit on Account of Hand—Three Other Letter Men Are Now Ineligible.

URBANA, Ill., Sept. 22.—With the loss of Robison, halfback, from the 1923 football squad at the University of Illinois, Coach Robert C. Zuppke is left with a nucleus of eleven letter men when it was expected at the first of the season that fourteen or fifteen letter men would be in uniform.

Robison turned in his suit after it was found out that his hand, injured during the summer while working, would not be strong enough to allow him to play.

W. H. Perrill, Bloomingburg, O., a substitute end, has turned in his uniform as the result of his studies falling below university requirements.

Three other letter men are at present ineligible but are working and will take special examinations in an attempt to regain scholastic standing high enough to allow them to play.

The following letter men are in suit: Captain J W McMillen, R. A. Miller, Vivian J. Green, Leonard Umnus, R. F Oakes, R R Wagner, G J Roberts, linemen, Frank E Rokusek, end, W W McIlwain, Emil Schultz, halfbacks, S A Coutchie, quarterback

How many of these veterans will start in the Nebraska game October 6, is not known but it is probable that not over seven will begin the contest with the Missouri valley champions The other positions including three backfield jobs will be held by new players who have never before worn the "blue" in an Illinois game

Swelling About Gone From Beatrice Boy's Knee and Weir's Cold About Broken—Practice Saturday Afternoon.

BY JOHN BENTLEY.

Reports from Dr. Martin J. McLean Saturday morning should serve as a tonic to Husker followers. Close examination showed Doug Myers' knee not seriously injured and the swelling which filled his pantleg Friday just about gone. Ed Weir, who has been almost down with a cold which caused pains in his back, first thought to have been scrimmage injuries, was feeling chipper Saturday morning, Dr McLean stated.

Weir expected to be out for practice Saturday and Myers may be able to get back by Monday or Tuesday

With Coach Schulte free from the duties of conducting the officials' schools over the state he can now devote all of his time to working with line candidates. He and Coach Bill Day concentrate their efforts with the linemen.

The Saturday afternoon practice may be held on the stadium field.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Sept 22—Grain prices closed higher on the Chicago board of trade today.

Wheat prices closed higher following a weak and lower opening. Strength in corn induced a live buying by commission houses and local traders. Outside news was bullish.

September corn sold at a price equal to the high level on the crop when buying power developed with the receipt of unfavorable crop news.

Oats sold higher with other grains on a dull and featureless market.

Following a slight advance, provisions weakened with a slack demand and lower cables.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22—Grain prices were irregular at the opening on the Chicago board of trade today.

Selling in a small degree by commission houses brought price recessions in wheat. News, both domestic and foreign, were favorable. Receipts, 90 cars.

A live commission house buying, especially in the deferred deliveries, brought strength to corn, as did light receipts, estimated at 140 cars.

Little trading featured the oats market and prices were practically unchanged. Receipts, 70 cars.

Nothing was done in provisions at the opening.

Grain Market Opinions.

J. M. Simpson says: Exports of wheat and flour during August 20,000,000. This seems strange in face of the daily reports of export business being practically nil during that time. The reports of damage by frost has been well eliminated and don't think the market will stand much selling pressure.

Bartlett Frazier & Co.: Do not expect any big price changes in wheat at the moment. Would buy corn only on the recessions.

L. Lowitz & Co.: Do not believe present levels can be maintained in wheat. Would sell corn on all hard spots.

Hulburd, Warren & Chandler: Pressure of world's supplies, including our own surplus, threatens to depress Chicago prices.

Stein Alstrin: Markets offer only trading opportunities and promises irregular trend.

Harris Winthrop & Co.: Shipping controversy at Canadian lake ports is still a subject of considerable concern.

Clement Curtis & Co.: Washington developments and lake shipping controversy will tend to disturb the shorts, rather than longs.

Logan & Bryan: Washington news will hardly have much effect now in wheat. Would buy corn on the breaks.

Riordan & Martin: Would buy wheat on decline for sales on quick bulge. Believe corn a sale on the bulges.

Thomson McKinnon: Constant buying of wheat will be necessary to prevent further decline. Corn presents investment opportunities.—Lamson Bros. & Co.

Chicago Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22—It was the impression of the trade here at the finish that there has been all advance in wheat of late that the market is entitled to and that it is not in shape to withstand much selling without further decline. The fading away of values on selling by early buyers and the limited export business was the basis for this opinion amongst traders.

S. C. Harris of Cross Roy and Saunders says the trade has been too generously bearish, that on the basis of 425,000,000 bushels of wheat for the Canadian crop, there will be 335,000,000 bushels surplus.

Locals who have sold September corn short for several days covered yesterday, making the bulge. Those who bought recently supplied the corn in taking profit.

It is said four large receiving houses have bought less than 25,000 bushels new corn so far, one house having only 2,000 bushels bought.

A Winnipeg message said fifty per cent of the farmers in Saskachewan have gone into the wheat pool. So far they have received no money.

Kansas City reports good rains the last two days have improved seeding conditions in western Kansas, and that about as much acreage will be seeded as last year.

Trade in oats remains light. Little pressure on September delivery. Indications are for a smaller acreage to be seeded to ... in North Dakota this fall.—Lamson Bros. & Co.

Journal of Commerce Report.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Wheat operators after the close last night were less optimistic. Most of them mentioned the fact that outside markets had displayed much weakness just before the finish and as strength this week has been largely dependent upon developments at other markets, further declines would probably be recorded.

So long as the northwest markets show stability, it is difficult to see why Chicago, the cheapest market in the country, should suffer from more than temporary weakness.—Lamson Bros. & Co.

Omaha Livestock Market.

OMAHA, Sept. 22.—Cattle—Receipts, 150 head. There were not enough cattle here today to test the market and all classes were nominally steady. This week's receipts of 53,300 head has been the largest of the year and the market ruled generally lower. Corn-feds suffered a sharp decline of around 50c, grass beeves sold steady to 25c lower and range cows and heifers reached the lowest levels of the season on a 25@40c slump. Stockers and feeders also broke 25@40c, but closed active with part of the loss regained.

Hogs—Receipts, 4,500. Trade in the shipper division this morning was scattered and without feature, the light receipts including but few light butcher hogs of real choice finish and the few sales that were made to shipper buyers being confined largely to heavy and mixed grades. Packers were active in filling their runs at prices steady to strong, in spots a trifle higher. Bulk of sales $7.70@8.15, top $8.40. Best light hogs this week have suffered a rather sharp decline, trade on this class closing 20@35c lower for the week while heavy packing grades show a fair advance of around 20c.

Sheep—Receipts, 4,000. Fat lambs are closing the week 25@50c lower than last Saturday. Most of the decline was suffered Monday, but at the finish the market is in a much healthier condition, due largely to keener competition and smaller supplies. Top for the week on fat stuff is $13.75. Feeders are off 25c for the week with the entire decline witnessed on Monday, due to the heavy receipts and a sharp break in fat stuff. The remainder of the week, however, the market was largely a steady affair. Best feeders here are moving at $13.00@13.25. Sheep are closing around 25c lower.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Short covering was the principal activity of the week's closing stock market. Having failed to push the main body of stocks to the year's lows in the previous session, professional operators apparently decided to retire from the market to see what happens over Sunday.

Their evening-up of transactions supplied a demand for the stocks under pressure most of the week, which lifted these issues one to three points above Friday's low prices.

PRISONER TO ATTEND FUNERAL?

Parents of Roscoe Stumbo Ask Temporary Release.

FREMONT, Neb., Sept. 22. — Parents of Roscoe Stumbo, of Falls City who is held as a federal prisoner at the Dodge county jail, are making an effort to arrange so he can be released long enough to attend the funeral of his sister, Leisa Stumbo, who it was reported, was killed when struck by an automobile in that place Thursday. Whether the lad will be able to attend depends upon a decision made by Judge Munger or some one in federal court at Lincoln.

Driver Is Held Blameless

FALLS CITY, Neb., Sept. 22.—No inquest will be held in the death of Letha Stumbo, nine, who was killed when struck by a car driven by Bert Ehman, Missouri Pacific shops employe Thursday night. County Attorney F. N. Prout made this announcement after his investigation showed that the driver was blameless in the accident.

LIVE WIRE CAUSES DEATH

A. P. MORTINSON OF AXTELL VICINITY A VICTIM.

Transmission Line Electrifies Fence and Charge Is Carried Around Whole Section.

AXTELL, Neb., Sept. 22.—A. P. Mortinsen whose home was two miles south east of Axtell was electrocuted when a high voltage wire of the Western Public Service Transmission line running from Kearney to Axtell became loose and fell across the barbed wire fence surrounding his farm.

The entire fence around a section of land became charged creating one of the most unusual danger conditions ever heard of in this section of the country.

Mr. Mortinson is believed to have been going for his mail. He was in the act of climbing the fence at a point near his garage and some distance from where the wire gave way. Physicians believe that death was instantaneous.

A stay wire attached to the line at the southeast corner of the section and on the opposite side of the road gave way or was burned off, allowing the high tension wire to drop across the fence at this corner. A ground was completed and the current was completed and the current was carried along the fence wire.

Rev. and Mrs. DeLaMatyr came from Wisconsin to Omaha, serving a church there, in 1870, and two years later came to Fremont. Their sons, Fred and Charles DeLaMatyr, located permanently in Fremont and became well known, one conducting a coal business for many years and the other serving in various capacities as city clerk and city treasurer. Both have died within the last five years. The Rev. Mr. DeLaMatyr died in California in 1892.

FIND STILL IN CORNFIELD

Officials Bring Hooch Making Apparatus From Near Atlanta to Holdrege.

ALMA, Neb., Sept. 22.—A still, containers, truck load of ingredients, and other articles said to be useful for making hootch, were found in a cornfield near Atlanta. The stuff was still loaded on the truck and it is presumed that it had been hauled to the field some time the day or night before. A pen, covering the body of the machine, had been built around it with a small door in one end for entrance.

The find was made by Sheriff Hansen of Phelps county, with Chief Police Ben Deabender and County Attorney Ellis of Holdrege and Will Cram of Atlanta, who brought the truck load of materials back to Holdrege.

The automobile is the property of Crete Cobb but he repudiates the load. He was placed under arrest, however, and will be charged with having liquor making utilities and mash in preparation in his possession.

MEN AND THINGS.

Superintendent Lefler was right in his characterization of the conduct of school boards and superintendents as unprincipled when they resort to the trick of luring teachers away from schools with whom they have contracts. We would be the last to deny to any teacher the opportunity of bettering his or her condition, but a contract is a contract and ought to be lived up to religiously. The duty to do so is more strongly impressed upon a teacher, perhaps, than others, because her position makes her an exemplar in conduct to the boys and girls under her. How can we impress upon these those ideals of life that they need most if the dollar is to be deified in their presence?

Some of the consolidated country schools, where high school work is carried, have refused to accept Smith-Hughes aid, and in one case returned the money to the federal government after it had been received. The reasons given are that the federal bureau places so many strings and restrictions upon its use that it is undesirable to accept the money, and that it foists upon the country school teachers who are less competent than some others who are available, but who are barred from employment because they cannot meet the federal test. Here is something that ought to be looked into. Congress gives this money for specific and necessary purposes. The bureaucrats ought not to be allowed to make such rules that the schools must reject the aid.

The bill introduced at the last session of the legislature to submit to the voters the question of appropriating ten million dollars as a soldiers' bonus was sidetracked because of the pressure of the taxpayers' league and public sentiment that was not directed towards this particular bill, but which was clamorous for less taxes. With the farmers in a better financial condition and in a better mood as the result of this year's crops it is quite probable that the next legislature will look more kindly on the referendum proposition. Nobody around the statehouse cared to push it at the last session because of the "cut the taxes" cry.

We were reading the other day an article by an educator who wrote as one in authority who made the point that we are borrowing unnecessary trouble when we deplore the fact that such a small percentage of the students in the grades get into high school and that so few of those who enter high school ever reach the universities. Omitting those who must abandon hope of a higher education because of financial necessity and home pressure, he declares that those who go no further have simply shown an incapacity to learn. He puts it a little more learnedly; he says they lack educability. In other words, that those who get into the higher schools are those who have shown they are worth educating. We pass it on as something interesting to think about.

A Lincoln man who was recently in Chicago and looked about a bit says that he can readily believe the story carried in this paper the other evening, the point of which was that a Chicago saloonkeeper was not aware, until told by some officers who stopped his rig carrying a barrel of beer, that there was any such thing as prohibition in force there as a law. Chicago is one of the big cities that has attracted a vast number of foreign-born persons, and there are indications that the authorities, who depend upon votes for remaining in office, do not interfere with the drinking habits of many of these little foreign colonies inside its limits. Even breweries are permitted to run there.

Some vigorous jabs are being taken at the very modest effort made by the new Nebraska marriage laws to prevent the marriage of persons who are afflicted with venereal diseases or who are the products of mismating as evidenced by their physical or mental degeneracy. This is all the more curious in view of the fact that most of the work cut out for the police authorities of the state and the cities results from the presence in our midst of a lot of morons, the offspring of the kind of marriages this new law attempts to prevent. The way of the transgressor may be hard, but he has nothing on the man who attempts to better conditions.

Six thousand million cigarets were smoked in one month this summer, if we recall the figures correctly. Men who smoke cigarets say they do it because it gives them a little jolt, sufficient for the time being, and some of them profess to believe that the small amount of tobacco in them clears their thinking apparatus. There is good reason to believe that thinking is a process that is indigenous to the individual, if he has it at all, and not the result of an outside stimulant. If each cigaret contained even one idea, just imagine how big a jump forward the world would be taking every month.

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

5 Minutes to Answer This.

"Gee whiz! How the mercury jumps!" remarked the truck driver as he got down from his perch to look at the thermometer, which registered 80 degrees in the shade. Then as he studied the fluctuation, table alongside, he was heard to ejaculate, "According to these figures the quicksilver has traveled 20 degrees during the day, but gained only 2 1-2 degrees."

Now, if the driver told the truth, what is the highest mark that the thermometer could have registered during those 20 degrees of travel?
